

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

A. Letters of Elamma (79-82)

The letters written by Elamma and, apart from 80*, sent off to Assur, must be archive copies kept by him. Letter 82* is written by Elamma and his business partner Kurub-lštar, who also figures as his co-addressee in 28*, 31* and 94 (cf. 8:28). Letter 105* appears in Ch. V, in a section dealing with “confirmation” (ka”unum).

79. Kt 91/k 317 (1-174-91)

A letter addressed by Elamma to four men in Assur, the first three probably his representatives, about copper still owed to him there. The two men who owe him copper figure among the addressees, which means that they themselves could read or hear Elamma’s request. This is not surprising, because they belonged to Elamma’s business partners in Assur, who figure in many letters exchanged between Assur and Kanesh. One of the debtors, Atāya, who occurs more often as a business associate of Elamma is addressed again in lines 17ff. (note “please my brother”, in l. 24) on a debt owed by his father.

- | | | |
|------|--|---|
| 1 | a-na A-šur-re-ší En-um-A-š[ur]
Da-dí-a ú A-ta-a qí-bi₄-ma
um-ma E-la-ma-ma um-ma a-tù-nu-/ma
17 ma-na URUDU i-ší-im | Say to Aššur-rēšī, Ennum-Aššur, Dadiya and Atāya, thus Elamma: You (plur.) wrote:
“17 minas of copper from the price |
| 5 | qá-qí-ri °ša₂ É Nu-ri-i-lí
KI A-šur-re-ší a-hu-ur
8 ma-na URUDU ša DINGIR-ba-ni
DUMU Ib-ni-lí KI A-ta-a URUDU
ma-lá i-na li-bi₄-šu-nu | for a house-plot of Nūr-ilī
is still due from Aššur-rēšī.
8 minas of copper belonging to Ilī-bāni, son of Ibni-ilī, is due from Atāya.
Settle accounts for all the copper |
| 10 | i-°ba-ší₂-ú ší-sí-a-ma
li-[qí-a] ú a-šé-er | they still owe and
collect it and add it |
| l.e. | ša KÙ.GI ṭí-ih-a-ma
ú šu-ma i-na ba-áb-/tí-a | to that derived from the gold. |
| rev. | mí-ma tal-qé-a ku-ta-ni | Moreover, if you have collected |
| for | | anything of my outstanding claims, buy |
| 15 | ša-ma-ma šé-bi₄-la-nim | it kutānu -textiles and send them to | | me”. | | |
| | a-na A-ta-a qí-bi₄-ma
ṭup-pá-am na-áš-pár-tam_x(TUM)
ša A-šur-la-ma-sí ša a-šu-mi
tá-ad-mi-iq-tim ša a-na | Say to Atāya:
“The tablet with the letter of Aššur-lamassī concerning the free loan he entrusted |
| 20 | a-bi₄-kà ip-qí-du na-áš-ú-ni-kum a-ma-kam
ṭup-pá-am ší-me-ma li-ba-/kà lá i-lá-mi-in | to your father, which they are bringing to you, read that tablet over there, but do not get angry. Please, |

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

	a-hi a-ta i-na ša-ha-at	my brother, assist
25	ša-zu-úz-tí-a i-zi-/iz-ma	my representative(s) and
u.e.	i-na a-lá-ak	send me, when a shipment
	ma-áš-kà-tí-a TÚG.HI.A iš-té-ŋ[a]	of mine starts its journey
l.e.	ú ša-na šé-bi₄-lam-ma	each time one or two textiles, then
	lá-ag-mi-il₅-kà	I will do you a favor (in return)."

Notes

10. Rather from šasā'um than a Š-stem of wašā'um, "produce"; I take šasā'um as short for nikkassī šasā'um, but it might also simply mean "to call for".

12. The gold must have been sent from Kanesh and been converted into silver in Assur.

16-20. See for Atāya p. XXXVII; his father probably was Bušiya, see *168:2.

18. Aššur-lamassī figures as transporter or agent of Elamma in *3:12, *9:21, *35:34.

25. Šazzuztum can be used as a collective (see Grammar § 5.14) and it probably refers to the first three addressees of the letter, who act as Elamma's representatives (see p. XXXVI).

27. The difficult term maškattum (see my remarks in Akkadica 18 [1980] 36-37) in practice means a shipment, usually of silver. Cf. *275:9-12, "purchase Akkadian textiles for a value of 1 mina (of silver) from my maškattum".

80. Kt 91/k 344 (1-201-91)

A letter with unusual details, which accordingly raise some lexical problems, about the trade in textiles. The addressee, Aššur-ṭāb, probably Elamma's son (or else his nephew of that name), apparently stays somewhere in Anatolia, where he is handling, selling and buying textiles, the latter to be sent regularly to Elamma, probably in Kanesh.

1	um-ma E-lá-ma-ma a-na A-šūr-DÙG qí-bi-ma a-na-kam-ma ú-na-hi-id-/kà um-ma a-na-ku-ma	Thus Elamma, say to Aššur-ṭāb: "It was here that I gave you the following instruction:
5	KÙ.B. 1 ma-na ma-lá tù-tù-ú pá-ni-a-ma šé-bí-lam KÙ.B. ma-lá i-qá-tí-kà i-ba-ší-ú *x-kà-ma a-ta ki-lá	'Send me every mina of silver you find with the first opportunity. All the silver you have available you must retain for yourself .'
10	6⅓ TÚG.HI.A káb-tù-tim	6⅓ heavy textiles,
l.e.	SIG₅ (erasure) ša Šu-bi-ri-im	of good quality, of Šubarean make,
rev.	Ku-ni-lúm na-áš-a-kum mu-dí-a-am Zl-lá-tí-a-am	Kūn-ilum is bringing you. Get hold of a specialist from Zilat
15	ša-ba-at-ma ṭu-ri-šu-nu lu-ša-dí-id-ma a-ni-ib-ra-/ri lu-sí-ma-ku-šu-nu-ma ma-lá KÙ.B. 1 GÍN tù-šé-lu-ú lu-bu-ší ra-qá-tim	and let him stretch their yarns and make them suitable for you for/as nibrāru -garments, so that you can realize at least some shekels of silver.
20	ù šu-lu-up-ki-e iš-tí	With the next shipment I will send you garments,

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

	wa-ar-ki-ú-tim	thin textiles and
	ú-šé-ba-lá-kum	Šulupkian textiles.
	lu šu-ul-hu lu ma-ku-hu	Look out for šulhu- or
	ša a-ma-kam tá-áb-ú-ku-<um>	makūhu -textiles over there that
25	a-mu-ur-ma té-er-ta-[kã]	please you and let your report
l.e	li-li-kam-ma i-ha-ra-an	come to me. And let with every single
	ha-ra-ma : ta x x a-ta °ANŠE? / [x_ç*]	caravan
	li-ta-lu-°_{ku}-ni-ma	regularly come to me, so that at least
	KÜ.B. 1 GÍN li-li-[a]m	some silver becomes available to me."

Notes

6. I derive tù-tù-ú (<tuttā+u) from watā'um, "to find" (see KEL 21, note 29).

9. The first sign is not clear, see copy; ab¹-kà-ma, "ship here", does not fit the context and one expects a preposition, e.g. retain them "with you".

12. ša Šubirim, "of Šubar(t)um," used of textiles, see Michel-Veenhof 2010, 242.

14-18. Must be one sentence, describing a plan that ultimately has to yield some silver (line 18), but the following interpretation, due to lexical problems, is difficult and hypothetical. ZI-lá-DÍ-a-am is a nisbe, from a town Zilad/t, also attested in TC 1, 31:28, which states that silver from the sale of textiles cannot be sent, because "people from Zilad/t and D/Tulan have retained it" (ZI-lá-DÍ-ú ù DU-lá-ni-ú uka "ilūma). Mūdium can be "expert" and if so this local expert has something to do with "their (scil. of the textiles mentioned) DU-ri" (acc, plur.). The first action is šaddudum, "to extend, to stretch", a unique D-stem, and its object then would be ṭurrū, "yarns, twines", not yet attested in OA. The result of this operation probably is (line 17a) that the writer "can make them fit for you (lussim + ak + ku(m) + šunu), from wasāmum D-stem (also unique in OA) for nibrāru-garments". If this is correct the yarns of "heavy Šubarean textiles" have to be stretched so that they become suitable for, or perhaps can be turned into nibrāru-garments, which are expected to yield some money. Nibrārū (see Michel-Veenhof 2010, 237) occur in small quantities, both as imported from Assur and as current in Anatolia. Prag I 686:19-20 mentions "a nibrāru-garment, either of Šubarean make or of the City (of Assur)", to be worn by the writer, but we do not know what type of garment it was.

19-20. Cf. *18:14-15. Since lubūšum is masculine, raqqātim is a separate textile name. While the textiles of these lines are imported from Assur, šulhu- and makūhu-textiles were traded and probably produced in Anatolia, although the first could also be acquired in Assur (see Michel-Veenhof 2010, 235ff., s.v.).

27. One expects the wish that the textiles found may come regularly to Elamma.

81. Kt 91/k 289 (1-146-91)

The copy of an important letter sent by Elamma to his business partners in Assur, whose shipment of merchandise he had taken in consignment for sale in Anatolia.

	a-na En-um-A-°šūr_ç	To Ennam-Aššur,
	Da-dí-a : Hi-na-a	Dadiya, Hinnāya,
	l-dí-A-bi₄-im : A-gu₅-a	Iddin-abum, Akua
	ù A-ta-a qí-bi₄-ma	and Atāya, say,
5	um-ma E-la-ma-ma	thus Elamma:
	a-na lu-qú-tí-ku-nu AN.NA	"As for your merchandise, tin
	ú TÚG.HI.A ša l-lí-a-lúm	and textiles, which Ilī-ālum

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

	ir-dí-a-ni : i-nu-mì	brought here, when we had reached
	ni-mì-ig-ru-ma AN.NA	an agreement and I had
10	ú TÚG.HI.A al-qé-ú	taken the tin and textiles,
	šu-ma kà-ru-um ša-du-a-/tám	I was authorized, if the colony levied
the
	il₅-té-qé i-na KÙ.B.-áp	the šaddu'utu -tax, to take it from
	°l₂-lí-a i-na ša na-ru-qí-šu	Iliya's silver, that of his joint-stock
	La-qé-ep : lá-qá-am	fund (managed by?) La-qēp.
15	qá-bi-a-ku : tūp-pá-ak-nu	I have in my possession a l.e.	ha-ar-ma-am ú-kà-al	valid record of yours (to that effect).
rev.	a-na-kam a-na kà-ri-im	Here I turned to the colony
	[ā]-tù-°ur₂ um-ma a-na-ku-ma	and I declared:
	[lu]-qú-tum i-a-tum	'The merchandise belongs to me,
20	[mì-š]u-um ša-du-a-tám	why have you levied
	šaddu'utu-tax?
	[t]ù-ša-dí-a um-ma šu-nu-ma	They answered:
	[lu]-°qú₂-tum a-na ša l-lí-a	'The merchandise has been
	ša-ak-na-at-ma	joined to that of Iliya and therefore
	nu-ša-dí um-ma a-na-ku-ma	we levied it.' I said: 'I am ready to
25	lá-at-ma lu-qú-tum lu i-a-tù-/ni	swear that the merchandise is truly
	mine!
	ú a-le-ma a-na kà-ri-im	But, wherever they collected the
	ša-du-a-tám il₅-té-qé-ú	the šaddu'utu -tax for the colony
	ú-la ig-da-am-lu-ni	they have not obliged me.
	36 ma-na AN.NA il₅-qé-ú	They took 36 minas of tin from which
30	ŠÀ.BA 6 ma-na ki-iš-da-at	I deducted 6 minas that
	Ku-ni-lim ú-ša-he-er	were for Kūn-lum's account.
	(one line blank)
	a-hu-ú-a a-tù-nu	Please, my brothers,
	30 ma-na AN.NA ma-lá	send me [with the first opportunity]
u.e	d[ā]*-tí-šu mu-ṭé-e-šu	30 minas of tin, as much as amounts to 35	ú ni-is-ha-tí-šu	its road-tax, its underweight
l.e.	[i-pá-ni-ma] šé-bi₄-lá-nim-ma a-na-kam	and the import-tax on it, so that I do not
	[i-K]Ù.B-pì-ku-nu lá a-lá-qé	have to take it from your silver here.
	[mì-šu-u]m áš-ta-na-pá-ṛ[ā]-ku-nu-tí-ma	Why must I write you time and again,
	[šé-b]u-lam lá ta-mu-a	while you refuse to send it?"

Notes

12-15. These lines become understandable when one realizes that Lā-qēp was a son of Iliya (*64A:1, *102:4f.). My translation takes Lā-qēp as a kind of apposition to or specification of the preceding words. This is grammatically difficult and the alternative would be to take qabiāku as active stative, "I have ordered Lāqēp to take it from ...".

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

19, 25. lū jāturnni in an oath is the independent state with a subjunctive ending, which is the normal form, cf. Grammar § 9.30, and *157:18, amtum i-a-tum, while the absolute state in KTS 1, 7a:25, “the su’u-stone i-a-at”, is an exception.

22-23 šakānum ana not only means “to put in”, e.g. in a container, but also (in CAD Š/I, 130, 2, g, mentioned only for Nuzi), “to combine with, to add to”, cf. BIN 4, 52:7f., “add the silver and gold they will send you ... to that of my trust” (ana ša qīptia šukun); TC 3, 83:38, “he must not add this gold to my debt” (ana hubullia e iškuššuma); POAT 16:24f., “you keep adding to my silver” (ana kaspia taštanakkan).

34. Contracted mu-ṭé-e-šu instead of muṭā’ēšu is very unusual.

Comment

Elamma has “taken” (in consignment?) a shipment of tin and textiles belonging to six business associates in Assur on the basis of an agreement, which probably meant that they had drawn up a sealed contract mentioning how much silver he would pay for it and when. It must also have contained the clause quoted in lines 11-15a, that specified how Elamma could indemnify himself should the colony levy šaddu’utu-tax on the shipment. This tax, recently discussed in OAI 110ff. and AKT 5, 85ff., here must be the high one of 3/60 (or 5%) of the value of a shipment, called “the šaddu’utum of the Kanesh colony”. The 36 minas of tin taken as tax (l. 29) then imply a shipment with a declared value of 12 talents of tin and it might have consisted of two donkey-loads of tin and three of textiles. This tax was a “once only payment” from which the important “licensed” traders, the so-called “dātum-payers”, were exempt and this must have been the reason why Elamma, asserting that the merchandise belonged to him, protested against its levy. The mere fact that the contract included a clause about a possible attempt of the colony to levy this tax, indicates that Elamma was not certain whether switching the ownership of the shipment would work. And indeed, the colony rejected Elamma’s request, because it considered the merchandise the property of Iliya, since it had been combined with, added to his assets, perhaps in storage or when it entered the palace. That such things happened is clear from CCT 3, 28b:14-16, where in view of the taxation by the palace, “the textiles were combined with those of A.” (šubātū ana ša A. šaknū). Iliya (see p. XXXVI) was a business associate of Elamma in Assur, as shown by *102:5, where a trader addressing Elamma, speaks of “Iliya of yours” (plur., kunu’um), i.e. of your firm. He was also the first-mentioned investor in Elamma’s joint-stock fund (*2:1), Elamma corresponds with him (*3:1) and sends him silver (*12:5). Iliya’s son Lā-qēp apparently lived in Anatolia and cooperated with Elamma.

The refusal of the colony to consider Elamma as the owner of the shipment meant that the Assyrian authorities en route in Anatolia made him pay a šaddu’utu-tax of 36 minas of tin. Because 6 minas of it were somehow for Kūn-ilum’s account, Elamma in lines 33-39 asks the addressees to send him these 30 minas from Assur without delay, because (lines 36-37) “I do not (wish to) take it here from your silver”, a statement which shows his good will, because the agreement quoted in lines 11-15 authorized him to do (lines 11-15; was Iliya the manager of the joint operation?). A problem is that these 30 minas of tin in lines 33-35 are described as being the (total of) the dātum, muṭā’ū and the nishatum incurred by the shipment. Of these deductions (the verb used is normally šahhurum) nishatum is the tax paid to the local palace on imported tin, dātum the “road-tax” paid during the caravan trip from Assur to Anatolia, and muṭā’ū the underweight established when upon arrival a sealed packet of tin proved to contain less than normal (usually 65 minas) or than was stated in a relevant caravan report or bill of loading. But such expenses seem to be quite different from the šaddu'utu-tax paid to the colonial office, unless the latter was somehow an addition of such costs or expenses, not paid en route but charged by the colony. This raises a series of questions about the nature of these expenses and the role of the colonial office, which require a much broader analysis than is possible here

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

I only mention here the possibility that the “road-tax” paid was the one for the final stage of the journey, from Hahhum to Kanesh, due to the Kanesh colony (cf. OAI 159 and see for many references to road-tax paid for this stage, Geography 89f.). This happened in Kt 94/k 351 (courtesy Barjamovic), where for a shipment of 140 minas of tin (one donkey-load) the transporter received 2 minas 17½ shekels (ca. 1,6% of the value of the load) as compensation for what he had paid as road-tax from Hahhum (until Kanesh)”. By also mentioning an underweight of 2 minas and the payment of 4 minas as nishatum,¹ this text is a nice parallel to our letter and it may support the idea that the term šaddu'utu-tax in our text was in fact the addition of several expenses paid to or charged by the colony. Another possibility is that the costs were those of transport further into Anatolia, beyond Kanesh. That the goods were indeed shipped on from Kanesh is shown by Elamma’s words “wherever they collected the šaddu'utu-tax for the colony” (l. 26f.), which must have happened inside Anatolia, at other colonies, as shown in OAI 112ff. and my observations in AKT 5:85-89. That Elamma had appealed “here” (in Kanesh) is understandable, because this tax was levied for the Kanesh colony and traders protesting against it in another colony had to go there to try to obtain a refund (AKT 5, 3:16-21). That the import-tax was levied upon arrival in an Anatolian town and the “underweight” was established when the packets were opened there, needs no proof. And we also have evidence for the levying of nishatum en route in Anatolia, in AKT 3, 34:7-9 and 15-18, twice at a bridge, at a rate of 20 and 15 shekels of copper per donkey, very small sums that looks like a “transit fee”. There are also a few occurrences of the payment of “road-tax” (dātum) in connection with transport inside Anatolia, e.g. in AKT 3, 34:1-6, where expenses for a trip from Wahšušana to Šaladuwar were “115 shekels of copper each” (donkey?) for the road-tax, donkey fodder and an inn, and in Kt c/k 263:39-41 (courtesy Dercksen), which mentions that for a shipment of copper “from Kanesh until Wahšušana the road-tax amounted for me to 3 minas per (donkey?)”. In Kt 87/k 465 (courtesy Hecker) amounts of copper paid as road-tax for trips from Šaladuwar to Burušhattum, vice versa, and from Wahšušana to Šaladuwar are mentioned, and in Kt 94/k 403 one for a trip from Hahhum to Burušhattum.

82. Kt 91/k 434 (1-287-91)

um-ma E-lá-ma-ma
ù Kur-ub-lštar-ma a-na
Da-da ù I-n[a-a]h-DINGIR
qí-bi-ma 30 ma-na KÙ.B
5 ša Ah-ša-lim a-na

Thus Elamma and Kurub-lštar, say to
Dada and Inah-ilī:
“The 30 minas of silver that Ah-šalim brought

¹ 2 GÚ 20 mana A[N.NA] / kunukkika l. ub[lam] / nisniqšuma / 2 mana imṭi 4 mana / nishatum 2 mana 17 ½ GÍN / da-tám ša ištu (10) Hahhim ana l. niddin.

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

	a-bi-ku-nu ub-lá-ni	to your father,
	šu-ma 15 GÍN.TA	if there is tin available at a rate
	i-ba-ší AN.NA ša-ma-ma	of 15 shekels (to 1), then buy it
	šé-bi-lá-nim	and send it to me.
l.e.	šu-ma i-na 15 GÍN.TA	It the rate is less than 15 shekels
11	ba-tí-iq mī-iš-lam	(to 1) then buy half tin
rev.	AN.NA mī-iš-lam	and half textiles and
	TÚG.HI.A ša-ma-ma	ship it to me with the
	i-pá-ni-im-ma : áb-kà-/nim	first opportunity.
15	a-ni-ša-am a-ba-ra-im	It should reach me here
	li-ik-šu-dam	before it gets cold.
	°i-nu₂-mī AN.NA ù TÚG.HI.A	When you seal the tin and
	[ta]-kà-na-kà-<ni> i-pá-ni	the textiles write on the
	[šu-u]q-lá-tim	packets (with tin) and on the
20	ù sí-ke TÚG.HI.A	hem of the textiles
	ša DAM.GÀR lá-pí-ta-/nim	“Belonging to tamkārum ”.
	i-ki-dim a-wa-at-ku-nu	No word of you should
	lá i-ša-me (erased ú)	be heard outside!
u.e	KÙ.B ša E-la-ma	The silver belongs to Elamma.”

Notes

6. I have found no evidence that the two addressees are brothers.

7-13. A rate of 15 shekels of tin for 1 shekel of silver is an acceptable one, less (the highest price attested is 12 1/2:1) makes tin expensive (see Veenhof 1988, 253f., and the observations in Ch. III, E, § 3). When tin is expensive and thus less profit can be made the load has to be mixed (cf. instructions to buy “half tin, half textiles”, AOATT 80f.).

15. See for ana barā'im kašādum the note on *16:21. I take the expression as a variant of ana nabrītīm kašādum, which must mean (OAI 270), “to arrived before it gets cold / the winter”. See Veenhof, Lex., s.v. barā'um.

21. Not writing the name of the owners of the merchandise, but stating that it belong to tamkārum, “a merchant” = the anonymous owner, prevents a creditor of the owner to seize it en route.

B. Letters to Elamma, alone or with others (83-97)

The letters are presented on the basis the alphabetical order of the names of their writers. Most writers are represented by one letter, but Ahu-waqar and Aššur-rē'ī by two, and most letters are addressed to Elamma alone, but *91 to Hinnāya and Elamma. In *92, to Elamma and Ali-ahum, and *94, to Elamma and Kurub-Ištar, the second addressee was the main one. In these letters Elamma is not mentioned in the body of text, nor asked to do something, but the writers apparently wished to keep him informed of what they wrote. This is understandable because the addressees and writers were his relatives (his brother Ali-ahum in *92, his son-in-law Kūn-ilum in *94) and business associates (Hinnāya and Kurub-Ištar in *91 and *94).

83. Kt 92/k 152 (1-112-92)

a-na E-lá-ma qí-bi-ma

Say to Elamma ,

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

	um-ma A-hu-wa-qar-ma	thus Ahu-waḡar:
	ta-áš-pu-ra-am um-ma a-ta-/ma	"You wrote me as follows:
	ṭup-pu-um i-hu-lá-pí-im	'(There is) a tablet wrapped in a
5	lá-wi : pá-nu-šu KIŠIB	rag, on the face of which is
	A-lá-hi-im a-na Hi-na-a	written: 'Seal of Ali-ahum
	ú E-lá-ma lá-pí-it	to Hinnāya and Elamma'.
	i-li-bi₄ ṭup-pé ša A-šur-/DÙG	We looked for it among the tablets of
	né-mu-ur-ma lá-šu	Aššur-ṭāb, but it is not there.
10	a-na A-šur-DÙG ni-iš-tap-ra¹-am	We have now sent a letter to Aššur-ṭāb.
	té-er-tù-šu li-tù-ra-am-ma	When his message (telling)
l.e..	a-šar ša-ak-nu	where it has been placed comes back
	nu-šé-ba-lá-ku-šu	we will send it to you.
rev.	a-šu-mi am-tí-im	As for the slave-girl of 15	ša A-šur-ta-ak-lá-ku / ša ta-áš-pu-ra-ni	Aššur-taklāku, about whom you wrote
us,		us,
	Dan-A-šur ni-iš-al-ma	we asked Dān-Aššur and he
	um-ma šu-ut-ma ší-im GEME₂	said: 'It was me who paid the price
	a-na-ku : i-ra-mi-ni-a	of the slave-girl out of my own
	áš-qúl LUGAL-^aŠKUR	means.' Šarrum-Adad
20	a-na Wa-ah-šu-ša-na	will go to Wahšušana,
	i-lá-ak ší-be	he will interrogate
	ú-ša-a-lá-ma	the witnesses and then we will
	za-ku-sà : ni-ša-pá-ra-/kum	send you definite information.

Notes

4. Hulāpum is used in the singular and plural as a "rag", a cheap piece of cloth, in which a slave or youngster could be clothed. Here it is used to wrap a tablet for protection, presumably a letter with legal or evidentiary value, called našpartum.
 21-22. A less likely translation is "I will ask (him for the names of) the witnesses.

84. Kt 92/k 161 (1-121-92)

	[a-na E-lá-ma qí-bi-ma	Say to Elamma,
	[um-ma A-h]u-wa-qar	thus Ahu-waḡar:
	°a-dí₂ ṭup-pí-im ša	"As for the tablet about
	[ṭ]a-áš-pu-<ra>-ni	which you wrote me as
5	um-ma a-ta-ma KIŠIB A-lá-hi-/im	follows: 'Seal of Ali-ahum,
	a-na E-lá-ma lá-pí-it	to Elamma is written (on it),
	ṭup-pu-um : i-li-bi₄	that tablet is to be found
	ṭup-pé-kà : i-ba-ší	among your tablets,
	Ha-na-a ù Id-na-a	Hanāya and Idnāya
10	[l]k-nu-ku-šu šu-ma	have sealed it'. If [x x]*x-tù-ru-ma	 return?
	left and upper edges and reverse missing
l.e.	[x x]-am šé-bi₄-lá-[am/ma]	send me
2'	[x x m]a-lá*ta²-x [x x]	 whatever you
	[x x x] x x [x x x]

Comment to *83-84.

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

In both letters Elamma, who must be writing from somewhere outside Kanesh, asks Ahu-waqar to find (and send him?) two different letters by Ali-ahum (presumably Elamma's brother), one (84*:5) addressed to Elamma alone, the other (83*:6-7) to Hinnāya and Elamma. The words written on them (lapiṭ), which are quoted, are the address on their envelopes. But since 83*:4-5 identifies the first letter as "wrapped in a rag", the reference to "its face" (panūšu) could also mean the text on a sealed bulla attached to the packet as a label for identifying it. Various archives have indeed yielded sealed bullae with such inscriptions (see Özgüç-Tunca 2001, 322ff., Kt c/k 832, 833, 835, 837, etc.). RA 59 (1965) 155, no. 24:9-12, mentions that "on the face of the packets (riksū) is written: Seal of A to/for P." If so, this letter may have been a so-called "missive" (našpartum), a letter containing an authorization, a promise or a statement of facts, which was carefully preserved under seal in the archive for its evidentiary value (see Veenhof 2003a, 88f.). But panum may also refer to the "face" of the sealed envelope itself, as in ICK 2, 147:33' (pani ṭuppiṣ harmim KIŠIB PN). In *83:5-7 the statement on the inscription must refer to the envelope, for lines 9-10 mention that this letter had been sealed by two other men, apparently referring to the bulla attached to the packet (perhaps a textile wrap, as mentioned in *83:4), which contained the letter.

In 84* it is difficult (also due to the lacuna after line 11) to decide where the quote of what Elamma wrote (starting in l. 5) ended. Are lines 7ff. part of it or the beginning of Ahu-waqar's answer? The information in 83*:8ff., that the tablet sought was supposed to be among Aššur-ṭāb's tablets, is interesting. It may imply that the latter, who might be Elamma's son or nephew,² had a special container with his tablets in Elamma's house, to which Ahu-waqar had access, even during Aššur-ṭāb's absence (l. 9). This raises the question who Ahu-waqar was, complicated by the absence of his patronym. The only patronym in our archive is in *283A:2, where, as son of Aššur-rē'ī, he figures as witness of a confrontation between Āl-ṭāb and Amur-Aššur. He might be the same man who, together with Aššuriš-tikal, writes *105 to Elamma and who, at Elamma's instruction, according to *25:6, together with Aššur-mūtappil (presumably Elamma's son) has to take tin belonging to Elamma.³

85. Kt 91/k 295 (1-152-91)

This tablet, of which about the upper half is preserved, is a report about a caravan, probably not one arriving from Assur, but traveling inside Anatolia, which would be certain if we can restore rev. 2'f. as "[we paid x tin ana] [n]i-is-[ha tim]"'. The letter was probably written from Kanesh, where "the lady" of l. 10', presumably Lamassutum, lived. The writers also appear in *47, written to Elamma by Aššur-imittī, where he reports on silver delivered to him, which he and Aššur-nādā checked.

a-na E-lá-ma qí-bi₄-ma
um-ma A-šur-na-da
ù A-šur-i-mi-tí-ma

Say to Elamma,
 thus Aššur-nādā
 and Aššur-imittī:

² In *289 Aššur-ṭāb, son of Ennamānum, owes Ahu-waqar 1 talent of tin. There is also an Aššur-ṭāb, son of Ahu-waqar, who figures in *230 (in eponymy year REL 91) as witness of a debt of still another Aššur-ṭāb).

³ See for contacts between Elamma and Ahu-waqar also *116, which mentions his arrival from Assur, and *143:14, where he receives beer (kirrum).

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

	1 me-at 2 TÚG.HI.[A ku-ſi a- nu	“102 kutānu -textiles
5	qá-dí ſa x* [x x x-ſi]um	including those
	4 GÚ x [ma-na AN.NA ku-nu-k] [?]	4 talents [x] minas of [sealed tin]
	6 *A[NŠE [?] x x x]	6 donkeys [?]
	lacune of ca. 8 lines
rev.	ù * x [a-na]
	[n]i-is-[ha-tim]	as import-tax
	°ni ₂ -iſ-qú-u[ki-ma x ma-na]	we paid. [Instead of x minas]
	°AN ₂ .NA 1/2 ma-n[a]	of tin we handed over
5'	KÙ.B. a-na qá-ſi	to Aššur-mūtappil
	A-šur-mu-ta-pi-il ₅	½ mina of silver.
	ni-dí-in 1/3 ma-na	Aššur-imittī
	AN.NA A-šur-i-mi-/ſi	took 1/3 mina
	il ₅ -qé	of tin.
10'	3 TÚG a-wi-il ₅ -tum	The lady took 3
	°tal ₂ -qé 1/3 ma-na / 7 GÍN	textiles, 27 shekels
	[ſi]i-im ANŠE	the price of a donkey.
	2 GÍN ſi-tum	2 shekels expenditures in [?] le.e.	KÙ.B. Ah-ša-lim * ſi ₅ -qé [?]	silver. Ah-šalim t[ook [?]].
15'	2 TÚG ſa kà-ša-ri-ſi	2 textiles of the harnesser.
	KI Ah-ša-lim ni-kà-/ſi	We will settle accounts
	ni-ša-ſi	with Ah-šalim.

Notes

5. The last sign, -ſi]um], does not allow qadum ſa liwītum, “including those for wrapping”.

6. At the end a reading [ku-nu-k]i seems impossible.

7. One expects ANŠE after the numeral, because this figures matches the load.

10'. See for Lamassutum, taking textiles that arrive in Kanesh the note on *42:19-20.

11'. The price paid for the donkey is extremely high.

13'-14'. Both ſitum and the construction of the sentence are unusual.

86. Kt 91/k 330 (1-187-91)

A difficult letter by Aššur-rē'ī on a problem with two textiles meant for Elamma, but taken by Aššur-mūtappil, who must be forced to pay for them.

	a-na E-lá-ma qí-bi-ma	Say to Elamma,
	um-ma A-šur-SIPA-ma	thus Aššur-rē'ī:
	2 ſu-lu-up-kà-ú	“The 2 Šulupkaean textiles
	ša ú-šé-bi-lá-ni	I sent you
5	A-šur-mu-ta-pi-il ₅	Aššur-mūtappil
	a-na 30 ma-na ma-sí-/am ¹	had taken for lá-ma : a-li-kà-ni	30 minas of refined copper
	il ₅ -qé-šu-nu	before I arrived.
	wa-ar-kà-nu-um	Afterwards
10	[u]m-ma ſu-ut-ma	he said:
le	[TÚG.H]i-kà : li-qí	‘Take your textiles’.
rev.	[1] TÚG : šé-šé-ſi[a-a]m*	[As for 1] textile
	i-BU-hu-šu*	in its stead they

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

	ša-ni-am : ú-ri-šu-uš	asked for another one.
15	TÚG : a-pá-ni-a i-dí-ú-šu-nu a-bi a-ta be-lí a-ta °lá₂ ú-nu-ú-ni té-er-ta-kà	They deposited the textiles before me. Please my father, my lord, they must not cheat me! Let a message of yours
20	li-li-kam-ma š[í-]m TÚG.HI.A li-dí-/nu-nim-/ma	come here so that they give me the price of the textiles,
u.e	lá-tal-°kam₂ a-ma °a-š₂a ta-ta-/ú-ni	then I will leave. Now then, as for what you said:
le.e	um-ma a-ta-/ma : ar-hi-i[š]	'Leave quickly!'
25	ta-ta-lá-kam : tù-ZA-ra*-x²-/ni	you areing me."

Notes

3-8. Cf. *46:18, where Aššur-mūtappil had taken 2 textiles from a large shipment, cleared in the palace, and in *91:21, that he had brought Elamma 2 kuṭānu-textiles.
12-14. The translation and interpretation were suggested by Kouwenberg, who pointed out that puhu is a regular construct state of puh'um and that the verb in l. 14 (instead of my proposal to assume warrušum*, "to make dirty") according to the context should be erāšum, "to ask", with a unique D-stem or a scribal mistake for e-ri-šu-uš.

23-25. Reading a-[š]a < ana ša explains the subjunctive in ta-ta-ú-ni. Perhaps the two word-dividing wedges in lines 24-25 may indicate that the left edge consisted of two columns, which would yield: "You said: You must leave, you must quickly me".

87. Kt 92/k 151 (1-111-92)

Aššur-rē' answers Elamma's question about tablets he took along from Assur: Šumi-abiya is bringing them. Next he reports about a letter of "the girl" that had arrived in Assur and he reminds Elamma of an earlier request for silver, needed because he had incurred heavy expenses, presumably during a caravan journey with merchandise of Elamma.

	[a]-na E-lá-má qí-bi-ma [um]-ma A-šūr-SIPAD-ma [ta-ā]š-pu-ra-am um-ma [a-]a-ma ṭup-pé-e na-áš-pá-ra-tim	Say to Elamma, thus Aššur-rē': "You wrote me as follows: 'Send me the tablets with letters
5	°ša iš-tù a₂-lim^{ki} tù-šé-ší-a-/ni [šé-bi-]am² : ṭup-pé-e [na-ā]š-pá-ra-tim ša Da-dí-a [ù] En-um-A-šūr [Šu-m]l-°a₂-bi-a na-áš-a-kum	that you took along from the City'. [Šum]i-abiya is on his way with the tablets with letters of Dadiya and Ennam-Aššur.
10	[ṭup-pu]-um ša šú-ha-ar-tim [i-li-ka]m um-ma ší-it-ma [a-m]l-nim ṭup-pá-am	A letter of the girl arrived here in which she wrote: 'Why did he not give you
l.e.	[lá i-dí]-na-kum a-ta	the tablet? You
rev.	[x x]-x-um a-lik-ma	 go and
15	[x x]-tù at-wu-šu-um	 talk with him!'

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

	[iš-ṭ]ù ITU.3.KAM	I wrote you three
	[áš-pu]-ra-kum um-ma a-na-ku-ma	months ago asking:
	[KÙ.B.] še-bi-lam šu-ma a-bi a-ta	'Send me [silver]. Please, my father
	[1 ù] 2 ma-na : <KI> a-li-ki-im	send me [one or] two minas
20	[pá-n]im-ma : še-bi-lam-ma	with the next caravan, lest
	[šu-q]á-al-kà lá i-pá-ṭá-/ar-/ma	your packet (of tin) is opened
	[ù]i-ba-kà lá i-lá-mi-in	and you get angry.
	[d]a-a-tum ma-ri-iš-tum	We have incurred a terribly
	ik-šu-ud-ni-a-tí	heavy road-tax".

Notes

The left edge of the tablet is gone (more at the bottom than at the top), so that the first signs of the lines are missing or damaged. Most restorations seem fairly safe.

2. Aššur-rē'ī is a business associate of Elamma (cf. *108:6, 9f.) and works as a transporter (*10:50, *29:6 and *40:4; cf. Ch. II, E, 1-4), in which capacity he apparently also brought letters from Elamma's representatives in Assur. Other letters of him to Elamma are *29 and *86. It is not clear from where Aššur-rē'ī wrote this letter.

9. The restoration of this name is conjectural. We meet a Šumi-abiya, son of A/Emu'a, who represents the sons of Kūn-ilum in texts dating after the death of Elamma, but in *56:3 he figures as debtor of Elamma and according to the letter *272:9' (which mentions him in the address) he has to bring a tablet overland (eqlam etāqum). *37:31-32 mentions his "wor-king capital", which shows that he was a "harnesser".

10. She could be Elamma's daughter Ummī-lāhara, but what she wrote remains unclear.

16-24. Transporters who ran out of "loose tin" to pay travel expenses, especially the road-tax (da'atum), do ask for some silver to be sent them en route, in order not to be forced to open a sealed packet with tin (šuqlum), which its owner hated; see AOATT 32 and 260f.

88. Kt 91/k 313 (1-170-91)

Letter sent by Aššur-ṭāb (possibly his son) to Elamma telling him how he obtained a testimony or acknowledgment of a debt by making a certain Eddinaya testify. The resulting record, together with another debt-note, are brought to Elamma by a transporter.

	a-na E-lá-ma	Say to Elamma,
	qí-bi₄-ma um-ma	thus speaks
	A-šur-DÙG-ma	Aššur-ṭāb:
	a-na-kam E-dí-na-a	"I forced Eddinaya
5	ú-ša-sí-ih-ma	to appear here and pí-šu En-nam-A-šur	Ennam-Aššur, son
l.e	DUMU Dí-dí-a-a	of Didiya, heard his
rev.	iš-me ha-ra-šu	statement. He is now on
	a-na A-lim^{ki}	his way to the City.
10	ṭup-pá-am ša hu-bu-/ul	A tablet recording
	En-na-nim	a debt of Ennānum, with

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

	ku-nu-ki-a	DUMU	Dí-dí-a	my seals, Didiya's son
	na-áš-a-kum			has with him for you.
	lu-qú-ut-kà			I will clear your merchandise
15	ú-za-kà a-ta-lá-/kam			(then) I will leave.

Notes

6-8. Ennam-Aššur, son of Didiya, also appears as transporter in *30:21-22, where he leads a caravan to Kanesh. See for the situations in which people “heard a statement” made under oath and sealed its written record, Veenhof 1991, 457f., in this volume *244:14-22, and also the bulla Kt 94/k 586 (Özgüç – Tunca 2001, 298).

11. Lack of a patronymic makes it difficult to identify Ennānum, but note that *68:1-15 records a debt of 2 minas of silver owed by Ennānum, son of Azua, to Elamma from REL year 84) and the same man in *110 has a conflict with Elamma.

Comment

What the testimony by Eddinaya stated or confirmed is not clear. It might have concerned the debt of Ennānum of l. 10-11, if the testimony was instrumental in obtaining his debt-note, but it seems more likely that it is the record of another debt, probably credit extended to him by Aššur-ṭāb. That Aššur-ṭāb, before coming, will clear Elamma's merchandise (lines 14-15), indicates that he is somewhere in Anatolia and this means that “the city” where it will be delivered must be Kanesh, where Elamma lived.

89. Kt 91/k 384 (1-238-91)

Bēlānum and Hinnāya tell Elamma that after he had left his son (apparently Pīlah-lštar, mentioned in l. 28) had sent two large amounts of silver to Ennam-Aššur (presumably another son of Elamma). The latter, as instructed by Elamma (his father) had converted one amount into gold, which he sent to the writers (who are in Kanesh), together with the second amount. They then arrange that Elamma's representatives in Kanesh have it brought together with a third amount of silver, to Elamma. What happens become clearer if we assume that Elamma had left for Assur and that the money – in all 45 minas of silver – had to reach him there.

	um-ma Bé-[á-num]	Thus Bēl[ānum]
	ù Hi-na-[a-mā]	and Hinnāya,
	a-na E-lá-ma	say to Elamma:
	qí-bi-ma wa-a[r-k]i-kà-/ma	“After you had left
5	11 ma-na KÙ. B.	your son sent
	ù 16 ma-na KÙ. B.	the 11 minas of silver
	ša a-šu-mi KÙ. GI	and the 16 minas of silver,
	En-nam-A-šur	on which you had given
	tù-ša-hi-zu me-ra-kà	Ennam-Aššur instructions
10	a-na En-nam-A-šur	concerning gold,
	ú-šé-bi-lam	to Ennam-Aššur.
	16 ma-na KÙ. B.	Ennam-Aššur took
l.e.	En-nam-A-šur	these 16 minas of silver
rev.	il₅-qé-ma 2 ma-na	and sent 2 minas

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

- 15 KÙ.GI ù 11 ma-na of gold and the 11 minas KÙ.B. a-šé-ri-ni of silver ú-šé-bi-lam (erasure) to us.
wa-ar-kà-tám Later the son of 18 ma-na KÙ.B. Blacky produced 20 DUMU Ša-lá-mi-im 18 minas of silver.
ú-šé-ší-am KÙ.B. The earlier amounts of ù KÙ.GI pá-ni-[a]m silver and gold ú-ša-ší-ib TUR [GA]L he We collected nu-pá-he-er-ma everything and 25 a-šé-er ša ki-[ma] brought (it) into u.e. ku-a-tí a-na Kà-n[i-iš] Ka[nesh] to your nu-uš-té-ri-ib representatives (saying):
 LE i-té-er-tí P[í-lá-a]h-lštar GUŠKIN_i 'At the instruction of Pilah-
a-na DUMU Ša-lá-mi-im lštar you must entrust the gold 30 pí-iq-da-ma a-šé-er to the son of Blacky,
E-lá-ma lu-bi-il₅ to bring it to Elamma'."

Notes

1. See for Bēl[ānum] as writer also *166 (together with Lamassutum) and *167 (addressed to Ennam-Aššur, Iddin-Aššur and Pilah-lštar).

12-15. These lines imply that the 16 minas of silver were converted at the current rate of 8:1 into gold and the 2 minas of gold may well have been a share in a joint-stock fund. The 2 minas of gold probably are also mentioned in *26:37, where they are given to lštar-pilah.

23-24. Derivation and meaning of ú-ša-ší-ib escape me; it should be derived from a verb prima aleph, but I dare not take it as a variant of ušēšib, from wašābum, "he convened a meeting" (lit. "made - the judges - take the bench").

29. See for the nick-name Šallāmum, the note on *26:10; its bearer might be a certain Pilah-lštar, not identical to Elamma's son of that name.

90. Kt 91/k 527 (1-380-91)

A letter by Elamma's representatives in Assur about problems that threatened to prevent the departure of his merchandise by caravan, due to an unpaid debt of the harnesser Ah-šalim, who was "seized", whereupon they presented themselves as his guarantors. Elamma is asked to collect the money they paid from him in Kanesh.

- um-ma En-um-A-šūr*
ú Da-dí-a-ma : a-na E-lá-ma
[qí]-bi-ma a-na-kam a-na
[Ah-ša]-lim ú-nu-ut-kà
 5 [ni-ip]-qí-id i-na ba-a[b]
[a-bu-ŋim i-na wa-ša-i-[šu]
[iš-ŋ]ú : ha-ra-nu-um
*[d]a²-ri - x_i-ú : A-šūr-i-d[ŋ]
i-li-kam-ma a-na 4 ma-[na]
 10 KÙ.B. A-šūr-i-dí Ah-ša-lim
 l.e. iš-ba-at um-ma šu-ut-ma
- Thus Ennam-Aššur
 and Dadiya, say to Elamma:
 "Here we entrusted
 your goods to Ah-šalim
 In the city-gate, when he was about to leave,
 after the caravan had already been assembled, Aššur-idī came and Aššur-idī seized Ah-šalim
 for 4 minas of silver,
 declaring:

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

	ú-lá ú-ša-ar-kà	'I will not let you go!'
rev.	i-na re-em lu-qú-tim	Out of consideration for the merchandise,
	ki-ma ú-nu-tim	in order not let the goods be
15	lá ta-ú-ri-im a-na-[ku]	brought back, we, I and Dadiya, had
	ú Da-dí-a a-na 4 ma-na	ourselves booked as his guarantors
	KÙ.B. qá-ta-tí-šu ni-il₅-ta-[pá-a]	for the 4 minas of silver.
	i-hi-id-ma Ah-ša-lim	Take care to ask Ah-šalim
	KÙ.B. e-ri-iš-ma um-ma	for the silver, saying:
20	a-ta-ma ša ki-ma i-a-[t]	"My representatives let themselves
	qá-ta-tí-kà il₅-ta-a[p]-/tù	be booked as your guarantors.
	KÙ.B. šu-qú-ul-ma	Pay the silver then I will send
	a-na a-wi-li lu-šé-bi-il₅-ma	it to the gentlemen so that they
	a-na A-šur-i-dí li-iš-qú-lu	can pay it to Aššur-idī.
u.e.	[š]a ki-ma i-a-tí	My representatives
26	[tup-pá₂-am [iš-pu-ru-ni]m	wrote me a letter
	[x] x [x] x x-°x₂* [šu-ma]	[to that effect.] If he le.e.	e-ta-ba-°at₂ [šu-up]-ra-ma	has fled, write to us,
	a-na-kam Ébi-s[ú] a-na ší-mi-/im	then we will sell
30	lu ni-dí-in	his house here.

Notes

4. Ah-šalim is known as a transporter from *82:4 (brings silver to Assur) and in *164:17-19 Lamassutum (Elamma's wife) mentions that "she gave 1 mina of silver to Ah-šalim for making purchases". The same man may occur in *85:14-16, *117: 3 // *118:4.

8. The verbal form, with harrānum as subject, is not clear and the second sign, which implies a past tense with an -i-vowel limits the possibilities. One might think of darāsum, or read RI as tal, to yield [i]t-tal-ku-ú, but the long final vowel is unusual and "had left" is problematic, because Ah-šalim could still be seized.

13-15. The seizure (and "holding the hem") of the transporter to whom the merchandise had entrusted, would mean that the goods (and donkeys?) had to be brought again into Assur. This was avoided by the action of Elamma's representatives (known as such also from several other letters, see p. XXXVI) "out of compassion for the merchandise", whose shipment would be delayed; cf. ina re-em luqūti in KTS 2, 37:4'-5' (ref. Kouwenberg) and in TC 3, 93:16 (ina re-em suhrim).

17. See for qātāt PN litputum (also nalputum), Veenhof 2001, 105 with note 31.

29-30. These lines demonstrate the power guarantors had on the basis of their right of regress against their defaulting debtor, described in Veenhof 2001, 120-124.

91. Kt 91/k 427 (1-280-91)

Iddin-abum asks Hinnāya and Elamma to collect a debt, owed to him by Ellil-bāni, on the basis of the relevant debt-note present in Hinnāya's house in Durhumit and to give him a quittance. Next Iddin-abum tells Elamma that Aššur-mūtappil is on his way to him with 2 textiles and asks him to send him his debt-note (for 33 shekels of silver).

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

	a-na Hi-na-a ù E-la-m[a]	Say to Hinnāya and Elamma,
	qí-bí-ma um-ma l-dí-a-bu-[ma]	thus Iddin-abum:
	1/2 ma-na 5 GÍN KÙ.B. sa-ru-pá-am	“35 shekels of refined silver
	i-sé-er ^dEN.LÍL-ba-ni	Ellil-bāni, son of Sasāya,
5	DUMU Sà-sà-a : ṭup-pu-šu ha-ar-mu-lum	owes (me); his sealed debt-note
	i-na li-bi₄ : ṭup-pi-a	is among my tablets (that are)
	i-na Du-ur-hu-mi-it	in Durhumit, in the house
	É Hi-na-a : i-ba-ší	of Hinnāya.
	a-ba-ú-a : a-tù-nu	Please, my fathers,
10	ša-ab-ta-šu-ma KÙ.B.	seize him and make him
	ša-áš-qí-la-šu : šu-ma mi-ma	pay the silver. If he
	i-qá-bi₄ : um-ma šu-ut-ma	protests and says: ‘I will
	a-na e-la-i-šu KÙ.B.	pay him the silver when he
	a-ša-qal : GANA₂-lam	comes up’ – he must not leave
l.e.	ú-la ú-ší : ša-ab-ta-šu-ma	for the country-side’, seize him and 16	KÙ.B. ša-áš-qí-la-šu-ma	make him pay the silver
rev.	ù iš-té-en i-ba-re-ku-nu	and let one of you
	ṭup-pá-am : li-dí-šu-um	give him a quittance stating
	ki-ma ṭup-pu-šu : sà-ru	that his debt-note is no longer valid.”
20	a-na E-la-ma qí-bí-ma	Say to Elamma: “Aššur-mūtappil,
	2 TÚG ku-ta-ni A-šùr¹-mu-ta-bíl	son of Šu-Bēlum, brought you
	DUMU Šu-Be-lim : i-na ku-nu-uk	2 kutānu -textiles provided
	Da-dí-a kà-an-ku-ma	with Dadiya’s seal.
	ub-la-kum a-bi a-ta	Please, my father,
25	be-lí a-ta : ṭup-pá-am	my lord,
	ša ½ ma-na 3 GÍN KÙ.B	the tablet by which ha-bu-la-ku-ni :	I owe you 33 shekels of silver,
	ku-nu-uk-šu-ma	put it under seal and
	a-na DUMU um-me-a-nim	give it to a reliable
30	ke-nim : dí-in-šu-ma	affiliated trader,
u.e.	lu-ub-lu-ni-šu	to bring it to me.”

Notes

The scribe consistently uses the sign LA₁ and regularly inserts the word-dividing wedge.

4f. The debtor appears as witness on the envelope Kt 86/k 166:1, where his name is spelled l-li-il₅-ba-ni, and the first or second un-inscribed seal must have belonged to him.

14. Eqlum usually means Anatolia and the debtor must be prevented from leaving on a caravan trip to Assur. But it might also mean the Anatolian countryside, which meant that the debtor should not leave the city (of Kanesh?).

18-19. The typical OA quittance (called ṭuppum ša šabā’ē) usually adds to the statement that the debt had been paid the clause that “the tablet (the original debt-note) that turns up is invalid” (ṭuppum ša ellianni sar), cf. EL 191ff. Such a quittance is issued if upon payment the original debt-note can not be returned to the debtor, obvious in our case, because the creditor asks others to collect the debt. 21-22. The same man in BIN 4, 105 (= EL 337):27f., as witness.

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

23. Dadiya is one of Elamma's representatives and his business associate in Assur, who regularly sends a few textiles to Anatolia to Elamma, who sells them for him (see for him p. XXXVI).

25-31. Elamma's request (lines 25-31) to return to him his debt-note suggests that the 2 textiles sent to his creditor serve as payment, presumably for a credit-sale. A price, in Anatolia, of 16 ½ shekels for a kutānu-textile is reasonable.

31. The plural lublūnim refers to the caravan with which the trader travels.

92. Kt 91/k 430 (1-283-91)

Iddin-Aššur asks Ali-ahum to see to it that Kiliya pays him the 1 mina of silver he owes him and to find evidence for a debt owed him by Saliya, who has not reacted to Iddin-Aššur's demands.

um-ma l-dí-A-šūr-ma
a-na E-la-ma ù A-la-/hi-im
qí-bi₄-ma a-na A-la-hi-im
qí-bi₄-ma 1 ma-na KÙ.B.
 5 ša tup-pá-am ša Sá-li-a ta-aḫ-pu-tù*
1 ma-na KÙ.B. Sá-li-a li-dí-na-ku-ma
 9 ù ší-tí KÙ.B. tup-pi-i l.e. am-ra-ma a-na
ar-be-e-šu
 rev. a-na Sà-li-a
e-sí-ir-ma
lu nu-ša-bi₄-ká a-hi a-ta 15 gi₅-mì-lam i-šé-ri-a ù me-er-e'-a šu-ku-un DAM.GÀR
i-šu a-ma-ma-an i-pi-kà lá ú-ší-/i

Thus Iddin-Aššur,
 say to Elamma and Ali-ahum,
 in particular to Ali-ahum:
 "1 mina of silver
 for which you drew up
 Saliya's debt-note,
 let Saliya give you that 1 mina of silver and for the rest of the silver inspect my tablet to (discover) that I have already dunned Saliy four times, so that we could pay you. Please my brother, do me
 and my sons this favor.
 I have a creditor,
 (so) let nobody hear
 (about it) from your mouth!"

Notes

5. Saliya might be the man who according to *310:7f. owes 30 shekels of silver plus interest to the anonymous writer of this memo.

6. The reading ta-aḫ-pu-tù was suggested by Kouwenberg.

9-14. Difficult, for tup-pi-i might be plural, but then one would expect tuppē'a, "my tablets", and the spelling rather suggests "my tablet", which might refer to a memorandum listing Iddin-Aššur's debts. Since the words are addressed to Ali-ahum alone, am-ra-ma should be an imp. sing. with dative suffix, "look up / inspect for me", with enclitic -ma to state the result of the action, namely to discover that the writer had already taken action four times. This action is esārum, "to press for payment", very rare in OA (only BIN 6, 199:15, ana esār kaspim), generally construed with an accusative object and not with ana, but the alternative ešārum, "to draw up" (a document) is also difficult ("I gave S. already four times a notice"?). The question is also how Ali-ahum could have learned that from inspecting the tablet. Considering these problems Kouwenberg asks whether amramma might not be a stative or rather a verbal adjective, "my checked tablet",

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

but it is not clear what that means and because also esārum ana is strange, uncertainty remains. Anyhow, in this passage the writer excuses himself for not yet having paid Ali-ahum, as “we” (he and a partner, perhaps Elamma, who is mentioned in the address) would have liked.

17-19. The payments collected by Ali-ahum should be kept secret, otherwise Iddin-Aššur’s creditor(s) might start to press their claims against him or to seize the silver collected for him.

93. Kt 91/k 296 (1-153-91)

Ištar-pilah writes Elamma about a problem he has with Hinnāya and asks to be sent silver. He corrects what Hinnāya had said (to Elamma?) and insists that the silver must be sent to him now, because it belongs to Iddin-Suen and not to Hinnāya.

	a-na E-lá-[ma qí-bi-ma]	Say to Elamma,
	um-ma Ištar-pi-lá-ah-ma	thus Ištar-pilah:
	3 ma-na AN.NA	“Hinnaya holds
	Hi-na-a i-na *x x [x]	3 minas of tin
5	ú-kà-al-ma	under seal and
	lá i-pá-tù-ru-nim	one must not open it
	li-bu-šu lá i-lá-m[ī]-/in¹(IM)	lest he gets angry.
	KÙ.B. 1½ ma-na	Take care
	i-hi-id-ma	to send me
rev.	šé-bi₄-lam	1½ mina of silver.
11	lá ša áš-pu-ra-ku-ni	That I did not write you is
	um-ma Hi-na-a-ma	because Hinnāya said:
	té-er-ta-kà li-°li-kam₂-/[ma]²	‘If a message of yours arrives
	ú-šé-ba-la-am	I will send it to you.’ (But now)
15	áš-pu-ur-°ma KÙ.B.*I lá °tù-/ha-/li₂-[iq]	I wrote: ‘Do not let the silver
	i-hi-id-ma*	get lost, take care to
	KÙ.B. šé-bi₄-lam	send me the silver!’
u.e.	KÙ.B. 1 GÍN	May at least 1 shekel
	li-[ī]-°am₂	of silver be produced!
le.e.	KÙ.B. lá KÙ.B.-áp-/šu	The silver is not his silver,
21	šu-<ut>-ma KÙ.B. I-dí-Sú-in	it is the silver of Iddin-Suen!”

Notes

4. Tin was usually kept in a sealed šuqlum (cf. *87:21) or a smaller riksum.

7. Unclear because the last sign of l. 12, KAM, overlaps with the end of l. 7.

10-14. Interpretation suggested by Kouwenberg; see for la ša = ša la, Grammar § 25.8 sub (3) and § 25.48.

20. I assume that šu-<ut>-ma refers back to the silver mentioned before.

Comment

Elamma’s archive contained the bulla *365, with string marks and cloth imprints on the back and on its front the words: a-na E-lá-ma / KIŠIB Ištar-pi-lá-ah. The bulla was not sealed and we do not know to which packet or container (containing merchandise, silver or a tablet) sent to Elamma it was attached.

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

94. Kt 92/k 186 (1-146-92)

A letter by Kūn-ilum in the first place to Kurub-lštar, Elamma's business partner, but whose contents Elamma too had to know. The letter deals with the handling of textiles of the writer, delivered by Ēnah-ilī and apparently supervised by Elamma, but the fact that only about half of its obverse is preserved, make its understanding difficult.

	a-na E-[lá-ma ū]	Say to Elamma and
	Kur-ub-lštar[r qí-bi-ma]	Kurub-lštar, say
	a-na Kur-ub-lštar qí-bi-ma]	especially to Kurub-lštar,
	um-ma Ku-ni-l[úm-ma]	thus Kūn-ilum:
5	i-nu-mi E-na-h[i-l]	"When Ēnah-ilī brought
	lu-qú-tí : ir-de₈-e-n[i-ma]	my merchandise here
	i-na É.GAL-lim : T[ÚG.HI.A]	and one counted the textiles
	ma-ah-ri-kà im-nu-[ū]	in the palace in your presenc,
	16 TÚG.HI.A a-na [	you gave 16 textiles to/as
10	ta-dí-in : ú *x [x x x]	 and you brought
	tù-ša-lí-m[a* x x]	(the rest ?) safely to [x b]u²-na *[x x x] reverse missing
1'	°x-bu-um₂* [x x x x]
le.e.	lu i-ta-ba-al i-n[a] KÙ.B.	he has/will indeed take(n) along
	ša iš-tí *x x [x x x]	from the silver that is due by"

Notes

4. Kūn-ilum (see p. XXXIII) was the first husband of lštar-lamassī and son-in-law of Elamma. His words "my merchandise (l.6) show that he traded for himself and this is also indicated by *81:30-31 (kišdāt K.). According to *19:10 he had a transporter (rādi luqūtim), but in *80:13 he himself brings (naši) merchandise to Elamma. *258 is a letter sent to him by Āmur-Aššur, which deals with copper.

5. Ēnah-ilī is well-known as transporter of Elamma.

8-11. Kurub-lštar's presence when Kūn-ilum's textiles arrived in Kanesh and were counted in the palace and the fact that he could dispose of textiles, shows his control of the operation. Was he perhaps (also) acting for Elamma and was this the reason why this letter was also addressed to him, or was it a kind of appeal by Kūn-ilum on his father-in-law, caused by the action of his associate Kurub-lštar?

9-10. Perhaps ana [nishatim], "as import-tax", or ana [PN], a trader or agent.

95. Kt 91/k 327 (1-184-91)

Ner'amtum informs Elamma about garments she is sending to him and his wife. In reaction to a letter of Elamma she adds a for us a cryptic piece of information concerning a man who has disappeared, which she kept secret, and about bringing somebody into the house to replace her son, which Elamma might disapprove of.

um-ma Né-er-a-am-tum-ma	Thus Ner'amtum,
a-na E-lá-ma	say to Elamma:
qí-bi-ma ra-qá-tám	"They are bringing you a thin
ú TÚG : na-áš-ú-ni-kum	textile and a normal one,

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

5	iš-tí lu-qú-tí-kà ù ší-it-ra-am a-na Lá-ma-sí-tim a-na a-wa-tim	together with your merchandise and a chemise for Lamassutum. As for the matter about
9	ša ta-áš-pu-ra-ni	which you wrote me,
l.e.	a-wi-lu-um	the gentleman
rev.	ih-tí-li-iq a-na ma-nim lá-aq-bi sà-ah-ra-<ku>-ma	has perished/disappeared. To whom should I talk? I am staying here,
15	ú-lá a-le-e-ma ú-lá a-pá-al ša : ki : me-er-i-a né-nu lá nu-šé-ra-áb a-na-ku áp-lá-ah-ma	I am unable to answer for it. We were not to bring somebody to replace my son in the house, but because I became afraid, I was
20	uš-té-ri-ib	the one who has now brought one in.
l.e.	li-ba-kà (erasure) lá tù-lá-mi-in	Do not get angry!"

Notes

1. ER written over an erased NIM. *9:16 mentions this woman (Né-er-am-tim) as recipient of a packet of 20 shekels of silver, presumably the payment for textiles she had given in commission (as tadmiqtum) to a trader, which shows that she lived in Assur, from where she also sent our letter. The name is spelled Na-ar-am-tim in *10:47, and Na-ra-am-tum in her letter ICK 1, 17:3, probably the same woman, because she also expected silver for her textiles (l. 43, "send me the price paid for the textiles, keep me informed!"). Her relation to Elamma is unknown, but the fact that in the address she makes her name precede that of Elamma points to her seniority; she might have been his aunt.

6. šitram must be the logical object of a not repeated naš'ūnikkum.

10-13. I do not understand what is at stake, but perhaps the one to replace "my son" is the awilum who is missing, so that now somebody else had to be found. The emphatic "we" – opposed to others who wish to do it? – could be members of her family or household, but what "bringing in (the house)" means is unclear. I do not believe that simple šērubum, notwithstanding the earlier "instead of my son", refers to adoption. Perhaps she means to bring a (young) man into the household to assist her and her family.

14. Since sahramma, perhaps "search (him) and", makes no sense, I have emended to sa-ah-ra-<ku>ma, "I am staying here ...".

22. The writer mixed up two constructions, libbaka la ilammin and la tulamman; that the sign ME is written over MA may be due to this confusion.

96. Kt 91/k 531 (1-384-91)

Puzur-Anna excuses himself for not turning up with Elamma and not traveling for him to Assur (with silver) for making purchases, because he had obligations to "our paternal house".

1	a-na E-la-ma qí-bi-ma um-ma Puzur₄-A-na-ma	Say to Elamma, thus Puzur-Anna:
---	--	------------------------------------

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

	a-la-nu-kà a-ba-am	"I have no father
	ú bé-la-am ú-la i-šu	and lord but you!
5	a-ša iš-tí-kà la uš-ta-me-/ru	Don't be angry because
	li-ba-kà la tù-lá-ma-an	I did not turn up with you.
	ú-lá a-na ší-a-ma-tim	I cannot travel to make
	a-la-ak a-té-er-tí	purchases (for you), I must travel
	É a-bi₄-ni a-la-ak	for an order of our paternal house.
10	um-ma a-na-ku-ma	I thought: he might
l.e.	i-kà-lá-a-ni-ma bi₄-il₅-tám	detain me and force me
	ú-ša-ša-a-ni	to carry a load (for him),
	a¹-ki-am la uš-ta-me-/er	for that reason I did not
	iš-tí-kà : iš-tí	turn up with you. But with
15	lu-qú-tí-kà pá-ni-e-ma	your next lot of merchandise
	a-[x]*-re-a-am	I will

Notes

2. We meet at least two different Puzur-Anna's in the archive, sons of Aššur-dān and Iddin-Adad. Our writer could be man who in *46:15-16 figures as owner of 3 textiles, called "his working capital", which implies that he was a "harnesser" bound by a service contract, which explains the elaborate excuses offered in this letter for not doing a job for Elamma.

5, 13. Instead of the more usual reciprocal N-stem, "to meet with somebody", the writer uses the rare Št₁-stem of amārum, with a reflexive meaning (not registered in CAD A/II, 23, meaning 6, but see Kouwenberg 2010, 387 (12) for an OB example), to express that it was his failure not "to meet with" the addressee. Cf. VS 26, 66:9, PN has left and gone elsewhere *annakam*⁹ iš-tini la uš-ta-me-er, "he did not show up here with us".

15-16. In stead of panēmma one expects panītima. I do not know how to restore the verbal form; the sign RI could also be the end of AR.

97. Kt 91/k 459 (1-312-91)

This letter must have been written from Assur, where the writer had learned what lines 2-5 describe. He informs Elamma that "the daughter of Aššur-dān", who may have taken action as her father's heir, had sent her attorney to Kanesh (l. 6) in order to obtain what Šu-Bēlum must have owed to her (father), by seizing his assets. He tells Elamma what to do to prevent that. The impossibility to identify the woman who took action and "the lady", who owns the house and the slave-girls, makes it difficult to understand what exactly was at stake.

	a-na E-lam-ma [qi-b]i-ma	Say to Elamma,
	um-ma Šu-Be-lúm-ma	thus Šu-Bēlum:
	DUMU.MÍ A-šur-dan DUMU Zi-zi-lim	"The daughter of Aššur-dān, son of Zizum,
	ra-bi₄-ša-am iš-tù a-lím^{ki}	has obtained an attorney
5	ta-aš-ba-at-ma ú-ša-am	from the City, who has left
	a-ma-kam wa-ša-áb	(and) is staying over there.
	šu-ma KÙ.B. lu URUDU	If for the silver or copper
	ša ú-šé-lá-ku-ni	that I sent up to you

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)

	ší-ma-am a-dí-ni	you have not yet made
10	la ta-áš-a-am KÙ.B.	purchases, then remove the silver
	šé-ší-ma a-šar ku-wa-tí	and let it stay where l.e.	lí-ib-ší šu-ma	you are. Should anybody raise
rev.	ma-ma-an a-na KÙ.B.	a claim against you in order to
	ša-ba-tim ir-ta-ag-^{*o}ma-/kum₂?	seize that silver,
15	KÙ.B. KÙ.B. kà-ri-im	the silver belongs to the colony.
	šu-ma a-na am-tim	If he makes an attempt at
	ú-la É-té ú-ṭá-hi	a slave-girl or the house,
	be-tù ù [a-ma-ṭum	the house and the slave-girls
	ša a-wi-[il₅-ṭim	belong to the lady!
20	a-na ni-ší a-wi-il₅-tim	Say to the personnel
	qi-ib-a-ma iš-tí-šu-nu	of the lady that they must
	le-ta-wu	talk with them.”

Notes

2. It seems rather unlikely that Šu-Bēlum was Elamma's son (cf. *77:3, “our Šu-Bēlum”).

3. See for Aššur-dān, the son of Zi-zi-im, BIN 6, 189:13 (cf. Puzur-Anna, son of Zi-zi-im, Kt 87/k 242:6).

4-5. The woman apparently had a valid claim, since she had been authorized by the City Assembly to engage an attorney. Note the use of šabātum, instead of ahāzum, which is current with an attorney as its object; see for šabātum also AKT 3, 89:6, where it seems to mean “to pick, select” (from among a group of affiliated traders).

7. The copper that Šu-Bēlum would have “sent up” to Elamma must refer to copper acquired in Anatolia (by one of Šu-Bēlum's agents?), which Elamma would convert for him into silver. Copper was not normally shipped from Anatolia to Assur.

11-15. Šēši implies that Šu-Bēlum's assets were in another house, but where is not clear and also not how and why the silver belonged to the colony. See for ragāmum, “to bring a legal complaint”, OALP 232-5.

17. The D-stem of ṭahhu'um is remarkable, because the meaning must be that of the G-stem, “to touch, approach, claim”; it may have been used because of the plural subject.

19. Who the awīltum was is unknown, as in other cases where this term is used, *85:10', *220:8, *252:24, *256:17, *323a:9 (where she has died), and *327:4.12. She can hardly have been Šu-Bēlum's wife, because that would not have protected the house and slave-girls against actions of the attorney. Elamma's wife, Lamassutum, who owned a house and slave-girls, is a serious possibility.

20. The members of the lady's household must discuss the matter (ēṭawwū, with plural subject) “with them”, presumably the attorney and those who accompany him.

IV. OTHER LETTERS (79-97)