

VI. MEMORANDUMS, LISTS AND NOTES (121-144)

A. Accounting and financial transactions

121. Kt 91/k 314 (1-171-91)

A memorandum on accounting, listing substantial amounts of silver of Elamma (l. 6) and Šu-Kūbum (l.8), whose size suggest that they are the dātum contributed by the traders mentioned to the kārum organization, followed by various balancing payments to be made. See the Comment after text 122*.

	24 $\frac{1}{3}$ ma-na KÙ.B.	24 $\frac{1}{3}$ minas of silver
	ú ša 3 TÚG 1 ma-na	and 1 mina for 3 textiles,
	7 $\frac{1}{2}$ GÍN (erasure) ša ANŠE	7 $\frac{1}{2}$ shekels for a donkey,
	(erasure) ša 12 TÚG 4 ma-na	for 12 textiles 4 minas,
5	ša 1 TÚG ku-ta-nim	for 1 kutānu -textile of Kūn-ilum
	ša Ku-ni-lim 11 GÍN E-la-/ma	11 shekels – Elamma.
	23 5/6 ma-na ú ša	23 5/6 minas and 1 mina
	3 TÚG 1 ma-na Šu-Ku-bu-um	for 3 textiles – Šu-Kūbum.
	°1 $\frac{1}{2}$ ma-na 15 GÍN	1 mina 15 shekels
10	[Hi-na-a i-na-pá-a]l*	[Hinnāya will p]ay
l.e.	[x x x x x x]	[.....]
rev.	E-la-ma [x x x x]	Elamma [.....],
	2 ma-na 10 [GÍN]	2 minas 10 [shekels]
	Šu-Ku-bu-um i-na-pá-/lam	Šu-Kūbum will pay to me.
15	iš-tù ni-ip-lá-/tum	After the balance payments
	ša Hi-na-a	by Hinnāya
	ú Šu-Ku-bi ₄ -im	and Šu-Kūbum
	ba-at-qá-ni	have been deducted
	$\frac{2}{3}$ ma-na 2 GÍN	I will pay
20	a-na kà-ri-im	42 shekels to
	a-na-pá-al	the colony.

Notes

10-12. The restorations are conjectural. That of l. 10 is based on *122:13-14. Balance payments had to be made to the colony to reach the amount fixed, but could also be made to colleagues, who had advanced money to supplement a deposit, which seems to be the case in l. 14, “he will pay to me”, and is confirmed by lines 15-17. If Hinnāya’s payment in l. 10 is to the colony, the next line might mention one to Elamma, but the last sign of l. 11 is [A]L and there is no preposition ana before Elamma.

122. Kt 91/k 329 (1-186-91)

VI. MEMORANDUMS, LISTS AND NOTES (121-144)

An oblong tablet (A) written in large script with a blunt stylus. It is a memo or note written by an anonymous speaker to an unidentified addressee, of which Kt m/k 91 (B) is a virtual duplicate (its lines 13 and 18 offer first person singular verbal forms). The main issue are assets of Hinnāya, deposited, no doubt in the colonial office (which must be the subject of the plural verbal form of l. 8) as his share for the account of the addressee. The mention of Elamma in Kt m/k 91 and the close association between him and Hinnāya are the reason for presenting this text, which was certainly not by accident part of Elamma's archive, here.

23 ⅓ ma-na Hi-na-a qá-sú i-dí ša 3 TÚG¹ ⅓ ma-na.TA 1 ma-na ma-na-ma	23 1/3 mina Hinnāya has deposited as his share. For 3 textiles at ⅓ mina apiece he deposited	// Kt m/k 91 omits: ša writes: 1
5 qá-sú i-dí 5½ TÚG.TA TA	1 mina as his share, 5½ textiles	omits: qá-sú and
10 GÍN.TA 3 TÚG ša ik-ri-°bi₄-kà kārim	at 10 shekels apiece, (for) 3 textiles of your temple-fund	writes: TÚG.HI.A adds: ša libbi
l.e. 10 GÍN.TA iš-ku-nu-nim ŠU.NIGIN ₂ 25 ma-na 15 GÍN	they submitted 10 shekels apiece.	In all: 25 minas 15
shekels
10 KÙ.B. ša a-ni-kà-sí-kà na-ad-a-tí-ni 1 ma-na 15 GÍN ša tá-na-pu-lu	of silver, which you have as deposit on your account. 1 mina 15 shekels is the balance payment you have to make.
14 ša ni-kà-sí-šū¹ (KU) u.e. ša Hi-na-a	About Hinnāya's account.

Notes

8. The difference between the verbs nadā'um and šakānum probably is that the former is used for deposits already made, while šakānum refers to that was "submitted" at the accounting, cf. AOATT 434, for šakānum as short for ina nikkassī šakānum.

9. The figure of 25 minas 15 shekels is correct if we add the amounts mentioned and deduct the 30 shekels of silver the colony had "submitted" (at the accounting) for the 3 textiles that were ikribū. But if "to submit" means that the 30 shekels were added to the deposit we arrive at 25 minas 45 shekels, the same amount mentioned in the duplicate Kt m/k 91, see below.

14-15. I take these lines as a kind of subscript (missing in the duplicate Kt m/k 91), which identifies the nature of the record.

Comment

Kt m/k 91(B), which K. Hecker kindly allowed me to use here, largely duplicates our text. That it qualifies the payment for the 3 textiles of "your temple fund" as due by the colony" (ša li-bi₄ kà-ri-im) probably means that it had charged them together with the other textiles, while as "temple fund" they were exempt from taxation. Kt m/k 91 reads in lines 9-21:

25 2/3 ma-na 5 GÍN	"25 minas 45 shekels
10 a ni-kà-sí-kà	is on your account,

VI. MEMORANDUMS, LISTS AND NOTES (121-144)

	1 ma-na 15 GÍN	you will make a balance payment
	ta-na-pá-al	of 1 mina 25 shekels.
	lá-ma a-li-kà-ni	Before I had come,
	a-ha-ma 5/6 ma-na KÙ.B.	separately, 5/6 mina of silver from
15	ša lu-qú-tí-kà : i-li-bi₄	your merchandise, was due from/charged to
	E-lá-ma 6 GÍN KÙ.B.	Elamma; 6 shekels of silver <that>
	a-kà-ri-im na-pá-lam	I had been ordered to balance
	qá-bi₄-a-ku-ni	to the colony.
	a-na E-lá-ma	To Elamma you will make
20	18 GÍN KÙ.B.	a balance payment of
	ta-na-pá-al	18 shekels of silver."

These records reflect the accounting of the colony, which concerned the substantial annual contribution, called dātum, which important traders, called "dātum-payers", owed to the colony in exchange for certain privileges (see the description in OAI 125ff.). The "shares (qātum) of the traders were "deposited" (nadā'um) on several occasions, called "pouring" (šitapkum), by paying amounts of silver or depositing textiles, which were then sold by the organization, presumably to the local palaces. The book value of a trader's deposits in the colony was registered and at the time of the annual accounting (nikkassū), after the size of that year's dātum had been fixed, it was calculated how much a trader still had to pay in addition to the deposits already made (OAI ch. 11). Our texts record an itemized settlement of Hinnāya (already discussed in OAI 226), which summarizes what he had already contributed and what still had to be paid (napālum) to meet his obligation.

The total of the assets, 25 minas 15 shekels, consists of 23 minas 20 shekels of silver already deposited, to which are added amounts for various lots of textiles, including a few of the addressee's "temple fund", which, as B is helpful in adding, are owed to him by the colony. Adding the balancing payment still to be made (lines 12-13) would yield a dātum amounting to 26 ½ minas of silver or 27 minas according to Kt m/k 91. The final lines of B concern different ("separately") small claims and debts.

In the texts two persons appear: 1) the speaker "I", explicit in A:14 and B:13, 18, who must be the person addressing "you" in A; 2) Hinnāya, whose account is the subject (A-B:2, A:14-15) and who must be identical to the "you", because of A:10-14, for he is the one who had made the deposits and has to make balance payments to the colony and (B:21) to Elamma. "I" must have been a trader representing the absent Hinnāya at the accounting and reports its outcome to him ("you"). Dercksen, OAI 226, suggests that it may have been Pūšu-kēn, but that is difficult to prove and the presence of 122* in Elamma's archive suggests that he is speaking. That he is mentioned in B:16 and 19 is not a problem, since this is not a letter and the few items dealing with Elamma are added at the end, perhaps to update the memo. Elamma as writer fits his close contacts with Hinnāya, who seems to have been his partner.

Text 121*, also about the accounting of the kārum, is related to 122* and deals with the dātum contributions of Elamma and of Šu-Kūbum. Here the balance payment by Šu-Kūbum, 2 minas 10 shekels (lines 13-14), added to his deposit of in all 24 5/6 minas, yields a total of 27 minas, the same figure as deduced from 122*. This suggests that Elamma's dātum had the same size, which implies that to the total of lines 1-6, 25 minas 42 ½ shekels, a balance payment of 1 mina 17 ½ shekels has to be made, but according to lines 19-21 he has to pay only 42 shekels, because (small) balance payments already made for him by Hinnāya and Šu-Kūbum (lines 15-18) are deducted.

VI. MEMORANDUMS, LISTS AND NOTES (121-144)

How to restore 121*:10-12 is unclear. The amount of l. 9 might be the balance payment due by Hinnāya according to 122*:12-13 and be meant in lines 15-16. Anyhow, we have to distinguish balance payments to be made to the colony in order to arrive at the required amount of dātum, and balance payments among the traders who helped or represented each other. All in all it seems very likely that 121* and 122* refer to the same accounting, based on a dātum of 27 minas of silver per trader, whereby the first text focuses on the accounts of Elamma and his partner Šu-Kūbum and the second on that of Hinnāya, who had been represented by Elamma.

123. Kt 91/k 447 (1-300-91)

A memo on settling accounts about a balance payment for tin and the payment of silver owed as šaddu'utu-fee.

	ša 1½ ma-na 3 GÍN / AN.NA	Of the 1 mina 33 shekels of tin,
	ša ni-ip-lá-tim	of the balance payment
	ša Hi-na-a	of Hinnāya, at 7½ shekels
	7½ GÍN.TA KÙ.B.-šu	(of tin) per (shekel) silver:
5	1 ⅓ GÍN 15 ŠE / KÙ.B.	12 5/12 shekels of silver.
	i-na ša A-mur-A-šur	From what Aššur-mālik
l.e.	16 [G]ÍN KÙ.B.	(owes), 16 shekels of silver,
rev.	ša ša-du-i-tim	of the šaddu'utu -tax,
	ha-bu-lu ŠÀ.BA 12⅓ / GÍN / 15 ŠE	thereof Pilah-lštar took
10	Pi-lá-ah-lštar	12 5/12 shekels,
	il₅-qé 3½ GÍN / 15 ŠE	Elamma took
	E-lá-ma il₅-qé	3 7/12 shekels.

Comment

One shekel of silver per 7½ shekels of tin over an amount of 93 shekels yields 12 2/5 shekels; the amount in line 5 is fractionally higher, 75 grains instead of 72 grains, due to the problem of rendering 2/5 in the current numerical notation.

B. Caravan goods124. Kt 91/k 299 (1-156-91)

Memorandum about nearly 3 minas of silver paid for buying textiles and tin, about 1 mina of silver for textiles transferred to the writer's share (account), about textiles bought by Abu-šalim, about a transport fee (šaddu'utum) of (owed to?) Aššur-imittī for a substantial shipment of silver and gold, a booking in an account, an other transport fee, and claims.

2 TÚG ku-ta-nu	2 kutānu -textiles
10 GÍN KÙ 4 TÚG lu-bu-š[u]	10 shekels of silver, 4 garments,
2 TÚG ra-qá-ta-an	2 thin textiles,
2 TÚG šu-lu-up-kà-ú	2 Šulupkaean textiles

VI. MEMORANDUMS, LISTS AND NOTES (121-144)

- 5 1 ma-na 9 GÍN KÙ.B. cost 1 mina 9 shekels
 it-bu-lu-ú of silver.
 24 ma-na AN.NA 24 minas of tin
 l.e. 1 ½ ma-na °7₂ GÍN / KÙ.B cost 97 shekels
 rev. it-ba-[a] of silver.
 10 5 TÚG lu-bu-[šu 1 TÚG] ra-qú-tum 5 garments, 1 thin textile (and)
 1 TÚG ku-ta-nu 1 ma-na °KÙ.B. 1 kutānu-textile (for/worth?) 1 mina of a-na qá-tí-a tá-hi silver have been booked as my share.
 4 TÚG *ku-ta-nu DIRI-[um?] 4 kutānu-textiles of very fine quality,
 3 TÚG ša šú-ùh-[i-im] 4 garments for youngsters
 15 ša A-bu-ša-lim iš-[ú-mu?] which Abu-šalim bought.
 ša 48 ma-na KÙ[B] For 48 minas of silver (and)
 2 ma-na KÙ.GI 2 minas of gold u.e. ša-du-a-tám the šaddu'utu-fee <was paid by?> 19 A-šur-i-mi-tí Aššur-imittī, 16 shekels of silver le.e. 16 GÍN KÙ.B. KI A-šur-i-/mi-tí are due from Aššur-imittī.
 2 ma-na 5 GÍN 2 minas 5 shekels
 °Ha-da-ú-ni (due from?) Hada'uni.

Notes

15. Abu-šalim could be the son of Elamma and if so the memo might date from after his death.

19. Aššur-imittī, a man with a very common name and without patronym, is not easily identified. He might be identical to the writer of *47 and *85, or the man who figures as transporter (*42:40), the son of Hali-abum, who as “harnesser” (in the service of Elamma) had received a working-capital according to *67// *70:3-4 and *173:15-16; note also “the caravan of Karwāya and Aššur-imittī, in *52:7.

Comment

This is a rather enigmatic record. The first part deals with the purchase of textiles and an amount of tin (at a price of 15:1 for silver), apparently in Assur. I assume that the 1 mina of silver is the value (or purchase price) of the 7 textiles registered as share of the writer and together with the first lot they would make one full donkey-load. The mention of the šaddu'utu-tax for a large amount of silver and some gold must be what was paid for their transport to Assur, normally to the transporter, who could be Aššur-imittī, if ša before his name means “due to”, but it might also mean “due by” (and paid for), if l. 20 would state its consequence. The name in the last line is obscure and the absence of a preposition does not reveal whether the amount of silver mentioned was also a debt (to the writer?).

125. Kt 91/k 417 (1-270-91)

Memorandum in the first person plural (l. 13) about silver paid by Elamma for probably two donkey loads of tin and textiles to the anonymous writers.

- | | |
|-----------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 2 GÚ 56⅔ ma-na | 2 talent 56⅔ minas |
| AN.NA qá-dum | of tin, including |
| AN.NA qá-tim | the loose tin, at |
| 15 LÁ 1/4 GÍN.TA | 14¾ shekels per (shekel of silver), |

VI. MEMORANDUMS, LISTS AND NOTES (121-144)

5	12 ma-na LÁ $\frac{1}{3}$ GÍN KÙ.B. - áp-šu ší-im TÚG.HI.A l.e. ù ANŠE.HI.A $2\frac{1}{3}$ ma-na	its price in silver 11 minas 59 $\frac{2}{3}$ shekels; 2 $\frac{1}{3}$ minas of silver, the price of the textiles and the donkeys.
10	KÙ.B. ŠU.NIGIN (erasure) $14\frac{1}{3}$ ma-na LÁ $\frac{1}{3}$ GÍN / <<KÙ.B.>> KÙ.B. E-lá-ma is-ni-iq-ni-a-tí	In all 14 minas 19 $\frac{2}{3}$ shekels of silver Elamma weighed out to us.

Comment

The amount of tin and the average price of textiles and donkeys suggests a load of two donkeys. What Elamma did is called sanāqum, basically “to check”, but with a dative suffix the verb is also used for to hand over while checking and weighing or counting. Elamma acquired the ownership of this lot, probably part of a larger caravan, from the writers via a transaction that must have been arranged or prepared in Assur, because the price of the tin is the one current there, which is confirmed by the mention of “loose tin”, always made available in Assur to transporters of a caravan. The payment for the donkeys and their load must have taken place in Kanesh, when it was delivered to him. The identity of writers remains unknown, but the presence of this record in the archive suggests they were associated with his firm.

126. Kt 91/k 328 (1-185-91)

Memorandum written on a small, oblong tablet on how to proceed with a claim about losses.

	a-šu-mi ša hu-lu-qá-e a-na-ku Ku-ra <ù> Šu-lštar ni-pá-hu-ur-ma iš-té-ni-iš a-na	For the matter of the losses. I, Kura <and> Šu-lštar will come together and together we will
5	Pí-lá-ah-lštar DUMU Ú-zu/- a a-wá-tám ni-da-an IGI Lá-qé-ep IGI E-me-me IGI A-šur-i-dí	address Pilah-lštar, son of Uzua, with Lā-qēp, Ememe and Aššur-idī as witnesses.
l.e.	šu-ma ib-tù-a-ni-a-tí	Should he prevail over us,
10	iš-tí-ni i-ra-ba-áš	then he can present his claim together with us.

Notes

6. awātam tadānum, “to give a statement”, occurs frequently in judicial records and refers to the start of a confrontation, cf. *225:11.15.

7-8. My translation assumes that the three men of l. 2 had agreed to engage these three person as witnesses when confronting Pilah-lštar. The alternative, that the plan described in lines 1-6 was an agreement reached before these three witnesses, seems less likely, for lines 9-11 are an essential part of the plan, which includes the possibility that Pilah-lštar does not cooperate.

9. From the verb bu’āum, see note on *19:9.

Comment

The issue of this memo are losses, presumably suffered by a joint caravan in which the three persons of l. 2 had shares, They presumably want to obtain satisfaction or compensation and to do so they have decided to address Pīlah-Ištar, whom we know from *51:12-14 as the leader of such a caravan. They will confront him with their wish or and probably have agreed that if he is helpful, e.g. by providing the necessary information, he can join them in presenting their claim (rabāšum). Where this is to happen is not mentioned, it could be with the ruler of the town in whose territory the losses had occurred and who by treaty was responsible for compensation, or perhaps to the City Assembly in Assur, which could pass a verdict about the sharing of the losses of such a caravan, as is clear from the verdict Kt n/k 1570, discussed in Veenhof 1995, 1731 and taken up again in OAI 172.

127. Kt 91/k 451 (1-304-91)

A memorandum on merchandise shipped from Assur. First on a shipment whose harnesser Kura was, mentioning losses en route, their compensation and how much silver was paid and sent to Kura. Next on merchandise transported by Kurub-Ištar, two loaded donkeys, which he entrusted to the anonymous writer.

	a-na 17 ku-ta-ni	For the 17 kutānu -textiles
	ša i-na Ba-at-na	that were lost
	ha-al-qú-ni	in Batna
	1½ ma-na.TA AN.NA	the caravan paid us a compensation
5	ILLAT-tum ú-ma-lí-/ni-a-tí	of 1½ mina of tin apiece.
	ša la-qá-im Ku-ra	Kura has taken what
	il₅-ta-qé ⅓ ma-na KÙ.B.	he was entitled to.
	be-ú-lá-tí-šu	Kura had received ⅓ mina of silver,
l.e.	Ku-ra i-na a-lín^{ki}	his working capital, in the City,
rev.	il₅-qé ½ ma-na KÙ.B.	(and) ½ mina of silver
11	a-na pá-ni-šu	Aššur-mālik sent
	A-šur-ma-lík ú-šé-bi₄-il₅	to him en route.
	i-na lu-qú-tim	Of the merchandise shipped
	ša šé-ep Kur-ub-Ištar	under Kurub-Ištar's responsibility
15	2 GÚ AN.NA ú lí-wi-/sú	[Kurub-Iš]tar entrusted to me
	15 ku-ta-ni	2 talents of tin with its wrapping,
	°2₇ ANŠE.HI.A sa-lá-me	15 kutānu -textiles (and)
	[Kur-ub-I]štar ip-qí-dam	2 black donkeys.
u.e.	°ŠA.BA₇ 1 šu-uq-lam	Of this load he has broken
20	ip-tur₄-ma	the seals of one packet
le.e.	11 ma-na AN.NA	and has taken
	[I]₅-té-qé	11 minas of silver.

Notes

1-5. There are several references to losses of caravans en route and there was a rule of the City (see the comment on *126) that if it was a collective caravan (ellutum) the trader hit by it was indemnified by a compensation paid from the funds of the caravan, presumably with each participant contributing a proportional share.

2. See for Batna, a town with an Assyrian trading station, west of Harran, probably in the area of Sürüç, Veenhof 2008b, 14-15.

14. Kurub-Ištar occurs as leader of a caravan also in CCT 1, 91a; Prag I 492; TPAK I, 147a; and AKT 6a, 134, where he and his caravan write a letter to the Envoys of the City and the travelers about the loss of lapis lazuli. He might be the same man as the one whose large caravan is mentioned in BIN 6, 180, and who according to BIN 6, 265 (where the value of the merchandise of his caravan is 22 talents of tin, which would fit the one described in BIN 6, 180) also visited Batna (see AOATT 293-4). He is presumably identical to Elamma's business associate mentioned on p. XXXVIII.

19-22. Such an action was not allowed and hated by the owners and one preferred to send the transporter additional money en route (as happened at another time, according to lines 9-11 of our text). But when the pocket money (unsealed, "loose tin") the transporter had received for covering his expenses en route proved to be too little, he was simply forced to do so (see AOATT 31-2 and 260-2).

Textiles

128. Kt 91/k 324 (1-181-91)

An anonymous small memo about balance payments consisting of textiles and silver, presumably to be made to Elamma, cf. the comments on *129. Reasons for these payments are not mentioned.

1	2½ TÚG ku-ta-ni I-li-a i-na-pá-al 1½ GÍN KÙ.B. i-lá-qé	2½ kutānu-textiles Iliya will give as compensation, he will get 1½ shekel of silver.
5	½ ma-na 1⅔ GÍN	31⅓ shekels
rev.	Kur-ub-Ištar i-na-pá-al 5⅔ GÍN A-šur-lá-ma-sí (remainder rev. not inscribed)	Kurub-Ištar will give as compensation, 5⅔ shekels Aššur-lamassī.

Notes

1-4. Iliya must have owed somewhat less than 2½ textiles and gets some silver back, because textiles were not further cut up. See for the possible reason of the balancing payments mentioned here the comment on *129.

5. GÍN is written over erased ma-na.

129. Kt 91/k 326 (1-183-91)

Memo on a small, oblong tablet, shaped as a label, mentioning four lots of textiles (in all 306 pieces) belonging to various traders.

1	96 ku-ta-nu ša I-lí-a 12 ku-ta-nu ša A-šur-lá-ma-sí	96 kutānu-textiles of Iliya, 12 kutanu textiles of Aššur-lamassī,
---	--	--

VI. MEMORANDUMS, LISTS AND NOTES (121-144)

l.e.	1 me-at (erasure)	100
6	ša Kur-ub-lštar	of Kurub-lštar,
	1 me-at LÁ 2	98
	ša E-lá-ma	of Elamma.

Comment

This memo must be related to *128, which suggests that the balance payments mentioned there were due to Elamma, because he had taken care of the clearance in the palace of the textiles of these three traders, mentioned here together with his own textiles, presumably because they had arrived with a joint caravan. The balance payments by Iliya and Kurub-lštar in Kt *128 could match the number of textiles owned by each according to the present memo. The latter would have had to pay almost $\frac{1}{3}$ shekel of silver per textile, and the former – at the same rate – ca. 28 shekels, for which he handed over $2\frac{1}{2}$ textiles, which was slightly more than he owed, so that he got back $1\frac{1}{2}$ shekel.

130. Kt 91/k 449 (1-302-91)

Anonymous memorandum, written with a blunt stylus in a coarse script, on clearing textiles in an Anatolian palace. The subject of “we counted” (l. 2) may have been Elamma and his as-sociates who occurs in the two previous records.

	i-nu-mi TÚG.HI.A	When we counted the textiles
	ša šé-pí-a ni-im-nu	shipped under my responsibility
	2 TÚG sà-áp-dí-nu(m) É.GAL- lúm	the palace took 2 sapdinnu -textiles;
	il₅-qé 1 šu-lu-up-kà-um	1 Šulupkaean-textile
5	ú 2 ku-ta-nu	and 2 kutānu -textiles
	ha-al-qú	were lost.
l.e.	5 TÚG.HI.A	Five textiles they took
rev.	il₅-tab-šu	for their clothing.
	1 me-at 17 šu-/ru-tum	117 dark textiles
10	a-na É.GAL- lim	entered the
	e-ru-bu	palace,
u.e	ŠÀ.BA 2 TÚG qá-a-/tí	two of which are the
le.e	ša Kur-ub-lštar	share of Kurub-lštar.

130a. Kt 91/k 373 (1-230-93)

A tiny tablet with only 4 lines of writing on the obverse. Who wrote this memo is unknown.

2 TÚG ša DAM.MÍ	Two textiles of the wife ¹
Kur-ub-lštar	of Kurub-lštar
a-na A-šur-ma-/lik	I gave to
a-dí-in	Aššur-mālik.

Notes

1. DAM.MÍ, an unusual combination of logograms, most probably for simple DAM, “wife”.

Comment

Included here on the assumption that Kurub-lštar is the well-known business associate of Elamma (see p. XXXVIII). The latter may have given textiles made by Kurub-lštar’s wife (in Assur?) to Aššur-mālik, presumably to sell them.

Silver

131. Kt 91/k 312 (1-169-91)

Short memo on claims and payments of silver. It is presented here because Aššur-mūtappil is a well-known transporter who worked for Elamma, cf. *8:16, *17:7, *34:26 and *42:18 (šēp A.).

	11¼ GÍN iš-tí	11¼ shekels due from
	A-šur-ba-ni	Aššur-bāni;
	11 GÍN iš-tí	11 shekels due from
	Puzur ₄ -A-šur	Puzur-Aššur;
5	9 GÍN KÙ.B. ša DAM	9 shekels of silver which
	Ha-ar-ša-a	Haršāya’s wife
i.e.	a-na A-šur-mu-ta-/pi-il ₅	owes to
rev.	ha-bu-la-at-ni	Aššur-mūtappil,
	me-eh-ra-tim	whose counter-value
10	a-dí-šu-um	I gave to him.
	a-na še-er	In addition to 12 shekels
	12 GÍN 1 ₂ 3 GÍN KÙ.B.	13 shekels of silver
	a-na A-šur-mu-ta-/pi-il ₅	for Aššur-mūtappil.

Notes

6. Possibly the same man who assumes an obligation to pay silver in *294:14 and in Kt 91/k 281 has a debt-claim of an Anatolian couple.

132. Kt 91/k 318 (1-175-91)

Memo on a small, oblong tablet, recording that Hinnāya took silver from the anonymous writer (Elamma?). It mentions the witnesses present, but is not a formal receipt, which should have been sealed by Hinnāya.

1	3½ ma-na KÙ.B.-áp	3½ minas of silver
	Ú-zu-a i-na li-/bi-a	of Uzua Hinnāya
	Hi-na-a il ₅ -qé	took at my expense.
	IGI A-šur-be-el-a-wa-/tim	In the presence of Aššur-bēl-awātim,
5	DUMU Šu-A-nim	son of Šu-Anum,
	IGI En-nam- ^o IŠKUR	of Ennam-Adad,
	DUMU Zi-ra	son of Zira.
i.e.	um-mi-a-nu-šu	His investors had contractually
	a-na ší-a-ma-/tim	bound me to make
10	ú-ra-ki-sú-/ni	purchases (with it).

VI. MEMORANDUMS, LISTS AND NOTES (121-144)

Notes

2. Uzua could be the harnesser and agent who had received a be'ulātu-loan (*37:31) and to whom, according to *23:4-6, textiles were entrusted for transport. Ina libbia probably expresses that Hinnāya charged to the writer (Elamma?) what Uzua owed him.

10. Assuming a ventive ending—ni < -nim

133. Kt 91/k 322 (1-179-91)

A note in large script on a small oblong tablet, listing very small payments, presumably in silver for reasons not mentioned, to various persons, most of whom have a cultic affiliation.

5 GÍN a-na	5 shekels for
Im-dī-DINGIR ½ GÍN	Imdī-ilum, ½ shekel
a-na GUDU ₄ 1/6 GÍN	for the priest, 1/6 shekel
a-na nu-a-ri-im	for the singer,
5 22½ ŠE.GÍN a-na	22½ shekels for the
rev. ŠU.I 22½ ŠE./GÍN	barber, 22½ shekels
a-na ša-AB-KI-tim*	for

Notes

6. While we have several references for persons designated as “singer” (CAD N/I, 378c), 2;, also POAT 38:12), but this is the first occurrence of a “barber” who, considering the context, may have had a cultic function.

7. Clearly written, but unknown; after lines 3-6 one might expect a female profession, but the payment may also have been for some item or purpose.

134. Kt 91/k 338 (1-195-91)

A short memo on a claim of some silver as payment for wool on a man from Ebla.

3 GÍN KÙ.B.	3 shekels of silver
iš-tí Eb-lá-i-im	due from the man from Ebla,
ša SÍG.HI.A	who took
l.e. il₅-qé-ú	wool.

Notes

2. Traders from Ebla occur in the plural, as a group, in ATHE 32:17 (they bought copper in an unidentified palace) and in Kt 94/k 421:28 (courtesy Barjamovic), “One does not do business with Eblaites” (ana eb-lá-i / la uštebbulū). Individual Eblaites are mentioned in BIN 6, 193 rev.:7’ (owes or received 4 minas - of copper?) and TPAK 1, 109:4 (silver owed to an Eblaites by an Assyrian paid by a colleague), but none is ever mentioned by name. They probably were few in number, so that a reference to “the Eblaites” was sufficient for identification.

135. Kt 91/k 341 (1-198-91)

VI. MEMORANDUMS, LISTS AND NOTES (121-144)

Memo about various amounts of silver (in all 116½ shekels) to be taken by various persons.

	1 ⅔ GÍN	10⅔ shekels
	A-šūr-ma-lik i-lá-qé	Aššur-mālik will take,
	⅔ ma-na 5/6 GÍN	40 5/6 shekels
	Kār-wa-a	Karwaya,
5	11 GÍN Iš-mi-id-DINGIR	11 shekels Išmid-Ilum,
	½ ma-na ⅔ GÍN	33⅔ shekels
	Šu-Ku-bu-um	Šu-Kūbum,
i.e.	15⅓ GÍN	15⅓ shekels
rev.	Bu-zu-ta-a	Buzutāya
	(remainder not inscribed)

Notes

5. See for this rare name KEL 2003, 29f., comment on no. 21a.

136. Kt 91/k 452 (1-305-91)

A short note about a small payment of silver.

10 GÍN KÙ.B.	10 shekels of silver
a-na l-dí-Sú-/en	I gave to
DUMU En-na-ni-/im	Iddin-Suen,
a-dí-in	son of Ennānum.
(rev. not inscribed)

137. Kt 91/k 464 (1-317-91)

A memo in which an anonymous writer first mentions that he had acquired copper from a certain Puzur-Ellil, to whom he had made silver available, and next that he had seized from another man silver for a debt owed to him by the same Puzur-Ellil.

	i-na 2 m[a-na KÙ.B.]	Of the 2 mi[nas of silver]
	ša hu-bu-ul Pu[zur₄-^dEN.LÍL[?]]	that are the debt of Pu[zur-Ellil] [?] ,
	ša tup-pí-šu ha-[ar-mi-im]	recorded in his certified tablet,
	ù ½ ma-na K[Ù.B.]	and the ½ mina of silver
5	ša a-ha-ma : a-dí-[šu-ni]	I had given him separately,
	ŠÀ.BA 2½ GÚ 4½ ° ma-na / URUDU	thereof I obtained 2 talents 34½ minas
	al-qé i-na 1 GÚ 50 ma-na	of copper. Of the 1 talent 50 minas
	URUDU ù 10 GÍN KÙ.B.	of copper and 10 shekels of silver
	ša hu-bu-ul	that are the debt
i.e.	Puzur₄-^dEN.LÍL	of Puzur-Ellil,
11	ŠÀ.BA 1 ma-na KÙ.B.	thereof I seized
rev.	KI Ša-lím-A-šūr	1 mina of silver
	DUMU Up-ha-qí-im	from Šallim-Aššur,
	aš-ba-at	son of Uphāqum.
	(remainder not inscribed)

Notes

12-13. This man also occurs in *70:16 and *71:9, where he owes 75 shekels of silver, but the relation between him and Puzur-Ellil is unclear.

Comment

The rates of exchange copper : silver seem to be very different, in lines 105 ca. 1:62, in lines 7-8 ca. 1:130. But ŠĀ.BA suggests that only part of the debt was paid each time. If we add up both transactions we obtain 4 talents 24 ½ minas of copper = 2 minas 50 shekels, which yields a rate of 1:93.

138. Kt 91/k 465 (1-318-92)

Undated memorandum on many of amounts silver, in all probably at least ca. 40 minas (the figures are broken in five cases), each followed by the name of a trader to whom “we gave it” (l. 24) and who probably now owes it to the anonymous writers. The many odd figures suggest that what is owed is the payment for merchandise, in particular textiles, entrusted to them or given in commission.

	[x ma]-na 17 GÍN A-šur-ANDUL	[x] mina(s) 17 shekels Aššur-šulūlī,
	[x m]a-na LÁ 1½ GÍN En-na-ma-núm	[x] mina(s) minus 1½ shekel Ennamānum,
	[x+]2 ² ma-na 2 GÍN	[x+]2 minas 2 shekels
	A-mur-Ištar 4 5/6 ma-na	Amur-Ištar, 4 5/6 minas
5	Ú-zu-ub-iš-ku-um	Uzubiškum,
	2 5/6 ma-na 7 GÍN A-zu-a	2 5/6 minas 7 shekels Azu’a,
	3 ma-na 7 GÍN Ku-ra	3 minas 7 shekels Kura,
	3 ma-na i-pá-ni-ú-tim	3 minas from an earlier settlement
	ni-kà-sí Ku-ra	of accounts Kura,
10	1 ma-na Ma-nu-ki-A-šur	1 mina Mannu-kī-Aššur,
	6 ma-na 12 GÍN	6 minas 12 shekels
l.e.	Í-lí-a-lúm	Ilī-ālum,
	2 5/6 ma-na	2 5/6 minas
rev.	A-šur-ma-lík DUMU Ú-sà-ni-[im]	Aššur-mālik, son of Usānum,
15	2 ma-na 12 GÍN	2 minas 12 shekels
	DUMU I-tur ₄ -DÍNGIR	the son of Itūr-ilī,
	°x m]a-na Pu-šu-ki-°in ₂	[x] mina(s) Pūšu-kēn,
	1 1/2 ma-na Š[u-ku-°b]u-um	1½ mina Šu-Kūbum,
	9 GÍN A-š[ur-i-m]i-tí	9 shekels Aššur-imittī
20	[x m]a-na i-n[u-m]	[x] mina(s) when
	[x x]*-a ú Ku-ra	a and Kura
	[a-n ₂ a* Ba-at-na	went [to]
	[i-]i-ku-ni	Batna
	[n]i-dí-šu-nu-tí	we gave to them.

Notes

3. The figure ends with two small verticals on top of each other, that is 2 or the end of 5/6.

7, 21. Kura is perhaps the son of Aššur-mālik (*287:4, his oath), who also occurs in *126:2 and *127:6, texts that also mention Batna and may refer to the same journey.

16. In texts of the archive we meet four different persons who are sons of Itūr-ilī.

22. The final vertical of the second sign allows the readings [a-n]a and [iš-t]ū.

139. Kt 92/k 150 (1-110-92)

Memorandum in the first person singular on various amounts of silver entrusted for transport (to Assur), some qualified as riksū, “packets”, six of which are meant for women. The writer could be Elamma, since it mentions his daughter Ummī-lšhara and the daughter of his close business associate Hinnāya, but the text could also date from after his death.

	5 GÍN KÙ.B. a-na	5 shekels silver for
	DUMU.MÍ Hi-na-a 10 GÍN	Hinnāya's daughter, 10 shekels
	a-na DUMU.MÍ A-šur-ni-šu	for Aššur-nišū's daughter,
	3 GÍN a-na DUMU.MÍ	3 shekels for the daughter
5	l-dí-na-bi-im	of Iddin-abum, son of
	DUMU Ba-la 1 GÍN a-na	Bala, 1 shekel for
	Lá-ma-sí ša lštar-pu-ú-z-ri	Lamassī of lštar-puzrī,
	2/3 ma-na KÙ.B.	2/3 mina of silver
	šé-bu-ul-ta-ša	her consignment
10	a-na Lá-ma-sí	I gave to Lamassī,
	DUMU.MÍ A-šur-^dUTU^š	daughter of Aššur-šamšī,
l.e.	a-dí-in 5 ½ GÍN	5 ½ shekels
rev.	a-na Um-mi-lš-ha-ra	for Ummī-lšhara,
	4 ri-ik-sú	four packets with
15	ku-nu-ki-a a-na É	my seals for the house of
	A-lá-hi-im ù Zi-kur-i-/lī	Ali-ahum and Zikur-ilī -
	mī-ma a-nim	all this I entrusted (for transport)
	IGI Da-dí-a áp-qí-id	in the presence of Dadiya.
	2 ri-ik-sí	Two packets of
20	ša Šu-Be-lim DUMU A-šur-be-el-a-	Šu-Bēlum, son of Aššur-bēl-awātim,
	[a-n]a a-ha-ti-šu [wa-tim	for his sister
	[ù DUM]U*.MÍ ^{ti-šu}	and his daughter
	[IG]I A-ta-a	I entrusted (for transport)
le.e	áp-qí-id (LI)	in the presence of Atāya.

Notes

7. The rare name lštar-puzrī occurs in Prag I 778:2 (writer of a letter) and in Kt 93/k 199:33 (courtesy Michel). The qualification ša lštar-puzri, “who belongs with I.”, is vague, but clear enough for the writer to distinguish this Lamassī from the one in l. 10.

8-10. The much larger amount meant for Lamassī is called “her šēbultum”, a word that denotes the silver delivered to women in Assur as the yield of textiles they sent to Kanesh to be sold there by relatives or friends (see AOATT 140-143), also designated as their tadmīqtum. This background could explain the fact that only here the writer states “I gave”, he delivered to her what she was entitled to. The recipient of this delivery, Lamassī, daughter of Aššur-šamšī, might be the Lamassī who in *334:14-16 received 10 shekels (of silver) for a fine textile, but identification is difficult because

VI. MEMORANDUMS, LISTS AND NOTES (121-144)

Lamassī was a rather popular name for OA girls (it was a.o. the name of Pūšu-kēn's wife, of the daughters of Mazaya, AKT 1, 50:10 and Pilah-lštar, ICK 1, 32:20, and of a female relative of lštar-puzrī, l. 7).

14-15. I assume that these "4 packets with my seals" contained the 6 different amounts listed before, which means that in at least two cases very small amounts were put in one packet, but presumably distinguished by sealings attached to them. They had to be delivered to "the house of Ali-ahum and Zikur-ilī, men we cannot identify, but who should probably see to it that they were passed on to the intended recipients. The contents of the two packets belonging to and giving along by Šu-Bēlum are not specified.

20. This man is attested as witness in Kt n/k 1742:2.

Comment

The record lists amounts of silver, in all a little more than 1 mina, sent to Assur (where e.g. Ummī-lšhara, Elamma's daughter lived), entrusted for transport in two separate lots, although they may have been shipped by the same caravan. The small amounts of silver of lines 1-7 are presumably gifts to daughters of relatives or business partners (Hinnāya had invested in Elamma's joint-stock fund) who lived in Assur. Because the names of the first three and the last two women are not mentioned we cannot identify them. It is also not necessary to assume that all the recipients of silver were somehow related to the same families or firms. Shipments of silver to Assur by "affiliated traders" probably comprised small consignments of many different people and may have served as a transport service.

140. Kt 92/k 154 (1-114-92)

A memorandum on a large tablet of which only ca. half of the reverse is preserved. It is written in the first person singular, mentioning various transactions in silver and also Elamma, therefore not written by him, but dealing with operations which involved or affected him.

l.e	[x x x x] *20+x [x x]
rev.	TÚG šu-ra-am a-na 11 GÍN	one dark colored textile I deposited
	a-na É kà-ri-im a-dí-i	for 11 shekels at the colonial office.
	i-na 2 ma-na 10 GÍN KÙ.B. ša i-ṇ[a]	Of the 2 minas 10 shekels of silver that one
5'	ni-kà-sí a-na E-lá-ma i-na-pu-lu-ni-[im]	will balance to Elamma at the accounting,
	ŠÀ.BA 1 1/3 ma-na 3 GÍN KÙ.B.	1 mina 23 shekels thereof
	al-qé ší-tí KÙ.B. 2/3 ma-na 7 GÍN	I took; the rest of the silver, 47 shekels,
	KI A-šūr-ma-lik l-lí-a-lim	I will collect from Aššur-mālik,
	ù La-qé-ep a-lá-qé	Ilī-ālum and Lā-qēp.
10'	2 ma-na 14 GÍN KÙ.B. i-na ša	2 minas 14 shekels of silver from what
	[A-šu]r-be-el-a-wa-tim i-na	belongs to Aššur-bēl-awātim, from/in
[.....]
	[x x x x x x x x x x] x*
	(lacuna)
le.	[x x x x x x x] x-ma *x [x x]

Tin

141. Kt 91/k 339 (1-196-91)

VI. MEMORANDUMS, LISTS AND NOTES (121-144)

Memo (tahsistum) on a very small (1.6 x 1.5 cm), oblong tablet about tin owed by Šu-Kūbum.

	1 ma-na 2 GÍN	For 1 mina 2 shekels
	AN.NA	of tin
	Šu-Ku-bu-um	Šu-Kūbum
	ih-bu-lam	became indebted to me.
rev.	ta-ah-sí-is-tum	This memo
6	° a_i-ni-tum	is a later one.
	wa¹(AH)-ar-ki-at

C. Lists of bread, beer and silver

142. Kt 92k 146 (1-106-92)

List mentioning the delivery of in all 1450 breads to twenty persons, who receive each 50 or 100 breads. The last line makes it very likely that the writer is Ali-ahum, the brother of Elamma, who had a son called Ennam-Aššur.

	1 me-at	NINDA	A-mur-lštar	100 breads	Amur-lštar
	1 me-at	NINDA	A-šur-mi-ti	100 breads	Aššur-imittī
	1 me-at	NINDA	Tù-pi-zi	100 breads	Tupizi
	1 me-at	NINDA	Šu-Ku-bu-um	100 breads	Šu-Kubum
5	50	NINDA	A-lá-hu-um	50 breads	Ali-ahum
	50	NINDA	En-na-be-lí	50 breads	Ennam-bēlī
	1 me-at	NINDA	A-šur-i-mi-tí / [DUMU A-ta-a	100 breads	Aššur-imittī, [son of Atāya
	1 me-at	NINDA	Puzur₄-A-šūr	100 breads	Puzur-Aššur
10	50	NINDA	Šál-ma-A-šūr	50 breads	Šallim-Aššur
	50	NINDA	Im-dí-DINGIR	50 breads	Imdī-ilum
i.e.	50	NINDA	DUMU Ha-lá-bi₄-im	50 breads	the son of Hali-abum
rev.	50	NINDA	Bu-zu-zu-um	50 breads	Buzuzum
	50	NINDA	Lá-qé-ep	50 breads	La-qēp
15	1 me-at	NINDA	Kur-ub-lštar	100 breads	Kurub-lštar
	1 me-at	NINDA	A-šur-ma-lik	100 breads	Aššur-mālik
	50	NINDA	A-šūr-šú-lu-li	50 breads	Aššur-šulūlī
	50	NINDA	A-ni-num	50 breads	Aninum
	50	NINDA	A-šur-SIPAD	50 breads	Aššur-rē'ī
20	1 me-at	NINDA	A-šur-na-da	100 breads	Aššur-nādā
	50	NINDA	En-nam-A-šur DUMU a-hi-a	50 breads	Ennam-Aššur, son of my brother

Notes

2, 8, 12. Because three different Aššur-imittī's occur, they are distinguished by mentioning the name of the father of the second and third one. A fourth one, "the son of Hali-abum", was a "harnesser" of Elamma, whose contract is preserved as *67, cf. *70:3-4; the death of his wife could be mentioned in *260:7-8.

143. Kt 92/k 99 (1-61-92)

A list about the distribution of 15 jars (kirrum), presumably with beer, to a series of persons. In line 2 a person receives in addition to a kirrum a ziqiqu, probably a smaller measure.

	1 ki-ru-um A-hu-ni	1 jar Ahuni
	1 ki-ru-um ù zi-qí-qú-um	1 jar and a
	Šu-Anim 1 ki-ru-um Šu-sà-a	Šu-Anum, 1 jar Šusāya.
	1 ki-ru-um I-dí-a-bi-im	1 jar Iddin-abum,
5	1 ki-ru-um Ša-he-er-i-lí	1 jar Šaher-ilī,
	1 ki-ru-um ša a-ma-at	1 jar of the maid of
	Ah-ša-lim 1 ki-ru-um En-na-nim	Ah-šalim, 1 jar Ennānum,
	1 ki-ru-um DINGIR-áš-ra-ni	1 jar Ilī-ašranni
	1 ki-ru-um Í-lí-ba-ni	1 jar Ilī-bāni,
10	1 ki-ru-um A-mur^dUTU	1 jar Amur-Šamaš,
u.e.	1 ki-ru-um Kà-sà-a	1 jar Kasāya,
rev.	1 ki-ru-um LUGAL^d/UTU*	1 jar Šarrum-Šamaš?,
	1 ki-ru-um Zu-x*	1 jar Zu.....
	1 ki-ru-um A-hu-wa-/qar	1 jar Ahu-waqar,
15	1 ki-ru-um Pí-lá-ah-/Ištar	1 jar Pilah-Ištar
	(2½ cm not inscribed)

Notes

2. The meaning of ziqiqu (provisional transcription) is unknown, probably a small jar or flask as a subdivision of a kirrum. Kouwenberg compares CCT 5, 33a:19, in a similar list (APU no. 319), šikram / ZI-KU-ú mišlum (20) mazītum / mišlum / tablātum / PN, "ZIKus with beer, half half, for PN", where ZIKum also must be a jar of a particular size. Perhaps our text contains a mistake, zi-<<ki>>-ku-um.

12-13. The sign UTU is written at the end of the next line against the last sign of l. 13, which looks like GIŠ.

Comments on *142 and *143

We have two more lists of the distribution of jars with beer (kirrum), APU 324 = CCT 5, 42a and 364 = RA 81 (1987) 16 no. 5, in which a number of persons each receive one jar, apart from two cases of two in CCT 5, 42a. Expenses for such jars with beer (usually "I paid ... for a kirrum") are mentioned repeatedly in OA texts (cf. CAD K 409f., 2, a). Bread lists are more numerous and those known previously were edited as APU 309, 314, 334, 338-340. Additional lists are Kt c/k 180 (courtesy Dercksen), with eight entries, and Kt f/k 188 (courtesy L. Umur; beginning rev. destroyed), with at least 24 entries; they list in all at least ca. 2500 breads. In most of these lists people receive 50 or 100 breads, with a few cases of 40 or 60 (APU 334: 31, 35, 38; 338:6; 339:3) and twice 200 (Kt f/k 188:6-7). The lists suggest that their writers (in our case presumably Ali-ahum) supplied them to the persons mentioned. In Kt f/k 188 (presumably from the archive of Peruwa) several of the recipients have Anatolian names (e.g. Balhaziya, Šašahšušar, Šuhurpiya). The slightly damaged list ICK 1, 181 (APU 334), which also mentions several Anatolians among the recipients, also lists other items, presumably bakery products (tahšimam and kukam tahšimam, also in Kt c/k 95: 2, after bread), beer, wine, footwear and jars with beer, and APU 340 also a few shekels of silver alongside the bread. Our lists can be compared with those that register that a large number of people each receive a kind of sheep (lakannum, šalinnu, in APU no. 370), alongside amounts of 5 or 6 minas of wool.¹

VI. MEMORANDUMS, LISTS AND NOTES (121-144)

One could consider such lists records of expenses for a meal or a drinking party, but when whole sheep are distributed it must be either a special occasion or a measure to provide people with meat rations. This last interpretation is also suggested by the large numbers of breads, 1350 in our text, even 3080 in APU 334, which the recipients could at best consume over a long period of time, redistribute or take along on a caravan journey. The numbers of breads and vessels with beer are too big to assume that they were prepared by and in the house of one prominent trader, e.g. for the members of his household, his personnel, agents, and colleagues. It is much more likely that such a trader had ordered and acquired them from a local bakery and brewery.

While most lists, acquired on the antiques market, cannot be connected with a particular archive, ICK 1, 181 (APU 334) was excavated by Hrozný in “locus 4”, which means that it belonged to the archives of Imdī-ilum. The study of the persons appearing in this text, who certainly did not all belong to his household or firm, has to wait for a reconstruction of his archive. But I note that among the recipients are well-known traders, such as Elamma and Pūšu-kēn (lines 6 and 34, for respectively 50 and 100 breads), which shows that also friends and colleagues were supplied. It also includes two deliveries to “the household of PN” (lines 8-9). In *142 several of the twenty recipients of bread are well-known from other texts of the archive - e.g. Amur-lštar, Aššur-rē’ī, Aššur-šulūī, Aninum, La-qēp, Kurub-lštar, and Šu-Kūbum - and it probably includes personnel, business partners or relatives (the last one is “my brother’s son”). Aššur-imittī, son of Halābum, appears in *70:4 as recipient of a be’ulātu-loan, which identifies him as a member of Elamma’s personnel. In other cases identification is difficult due to the lack of patronyms, but we also meet persons who certainly did not belong to Elamma’s family or firm, such as Imdī-ilim (l. 11), an important, independent trader, and Tupizi, who receives 50 breads in APU 334:26 and 100 breads in Kt c/k 180, a list that also mentions Pūšu-kēn and Šu-Kūbum, both as recipients of 100 breads. In Kt f/k 188 several of the recipients are designated “the wife of PN” (of Iliš-tikal, Zurzur, Hanu, Arawa and I-na-[x (x)]).

The lists show that a trader – apparently a prominent one, such as Elamma or his brother, Ali-ahum, and Imdīlum - acquired large quantities of bread and beer to supply them to others, possibly including his personnel, but also his business associates and colleagues. The anonymous writer of the short memo Kt c/k 95 (courtesy Dercksen) states that he had 100 and 50 breads brought (šēbulum) to other men. The breads are not gifts, since the list APU 314:13-15 ends with the words: “All these men are (hereby) indebted to me” (mimma awīlē anniuttim habbulūnim) and the fact that the size of the debt is not mentioned may be explained by assuming that breads had a standard price. This makes such lists memorandums of claims by the writer on the recipients, but they do not mention why a trader provided this service. Did they take turns in doing so or ¹ Cf. also CCT 5, 33a = APU 319, where different edible items are given out. The comparable list Prag I 682 also registers twelve persons who receive a small amount of silver (usually between 1 and 2 shekels, but once 10).

VI. MEMORANDUMS, LISTS AND NOTES (121-144)

was it a commercial enterprise, which allowed the trader in question to earn money as a kind of whole-sale supplier? The existence of such a service fits the specific nature of an Assyrian colony, which comprised many men who lived and worked without women to care for their daily needs and many people involved in the trade who visited it (caravaneers, transporters, messengers) did not have houses of their own. They had to be helped by others, possibly their employers or associates or simply merchants engaged “catering services”, who provided the food and drinks they needed.

List of silver144. Kt 92/k 106 (1-68-92)

A list of persons with small amounts of silver, ranging from 1 to 2 shekels. Although several names are known, the persons listed in general are not well-known from the texts of Elamma's archive and difficult to identify for lack of patronyms.

	1½ GÍN I-dí-a-bu-um	1 shekel Iddin-abum
	1½ GÍN Hu-bu-zi	1½ shekel Hubuzi
	1⅓ GÍN Šu-Be-lúm	1⅓ shekel Šu-Bēlum
	1 GÍN Sú-sà-a	1 shekel Susāya
5	1½ GÍN ^d ISKUR-ELLAT	1½ shekel Adad-ellat
	2 GÍN En-na-ni-a	2 shekels Ennāniya
	2 GÍN A-šur-^dUTU^š	2 shekels Aššur-šamšī
	1 GÍN En-um-A-šur	1 shekel Ennam-Aššur,
	DUMU A-šur-UTU^š	son of Aššur-šamšī
10	2 GÍN Puzur₄-^dISKUR	2 shekels Puzur-Adad
	1 GÍN Puzur₄-lštar	1 shekel Puzur-lštar
rev.	1 GÍN Ú-šú-ur-ša-A-/šur	1 shekel Ušur-ša-Aššur
	1 GÍN Ma-nu-ki-A-šur	1 shekel Mannu-kī-Aššur
	⅔ GÍN A-mur-ZU	⅔ shekel Amur-Suen
15	1 GÍN Šu-A-num	1 shekel Šu-Anum
	1½ GÍN Ku-uš²-mu-um	1½ shekel Kušmum
	1 GÍN ^d ISKUR- ba-ni	1 shekel Adad-bāni
	1 GÍN Šál-ma-A-šur	1 shekel Šallim-Aššur
	1 GÍN En-nam-A-šur	1 shekel Ennam-Aššur,
20	DUMU Sú-in-na-da	son of Suen-nādā
i.e.	1 GÍN DUG-A-šur	1 shekel Ṭāb-Aššur
	1 GÍN DUMU Sú-e-ta¹-/ta	1 shekel the son of Suettata.

Notes

4. Several different men of this name occur in the “Kultepe texts”, but the one mentioned here might well be the trader of *49:2.6 (see the comment on this text), who cooperated with Elamma in a caravan.

8-9. The occurrence of two men (also l. 20) with the popular name Ennam-Aššur required identification by means of the name of their father, which is not given for the other persons listed. That the second element of the name Aššur-šamšī, “(is) my sun”, is used metaphorically and does not refer to the sun god, explains the frequent omission of the determinative DINGIR before UTU.

16. The strange sign is an UŠ without final vertical, but the name K/Qušmum is not attested elsewhere.

VI. MEMORANDUMS, LISTS AND NOTES (121-144)

Comment

The absence of a preposition (e.g. ana, “for”, as in APU 332, or išti, “due by”, e.g. in APU 320), leaves the purpose of the list unclear, as is the case in APU 322, 359 and 365 (where a few amounts are described as qātum/ qādum ša šuhārim, “share of / including that of the boy”). It could record a distribution of small gifts to the persons mentioned or gifts by them. The former interpretation is unlikely, because most persons are not well-known from Elamma’s archive. The latter is suggested by the subscript of APU 367:19-20 (a list of 17 amounts of silver, mostly all ranging from 1 to 2 shekels), “All this they donated to my amtum”, where amtum probably is the wife of a trader. The gifts might have been made on the occasion of her marriage or the birth of a child.