Beginning of the month Bēlat-ekallim, eponymy Elāli son of Ikūnum. Since the matter was concluded 2 months ago, we heard the tablets that Aššur-šadue son of Tu'imum brought, and we made enquiries but we will not go back to the City assembly. Kuziyya brought 10 minas of silver; hinnaya brought 10 minas of silver and 20 minas of silver has been deducted from your debt. Then later Šu-Bēlum came and Šu-Bēlum said to hinnaya: "I entrusted 20 minas of sealed silver to you." hinnaya without those who know did not confer with us, but said: "Yes, you did entrust it to me. I shall ask, and if they did not bring it I shall buy it in a merchant-house and pay you." Šu-Bēlum said: "The 10 minas of silver that Kuziyya brought, are available." hinnaya gave in in the matter and borrowed 10 minas of silver from a merchant-house and paid, and hinnaya got a certified tablet stating that it will be deducted from your debt. In all, 30 minas of silver will be deducted from your debt. Send the silver to hinnaya so the interest will not hurt you. In the matter concerning Aššur-bāni ... he turned to the City assembly and said: "A bribe!" Had you been present would they (not) have treated his word like chaff? For the statement you made, namely: "Let the City judge my case!" - you are to pay 1 mina 10 shekels of silver. Then I wrote a few times to you in hahhum, but you did not send me anything. Did you not know that when you had left the roads were in turmoil and the palaces were headstrong? Until the matter was cleared I had to stay 8 months in the interior. I went to where the textiles were, in the villages, and I got the textiles out and with great effort I brought the textiles into Wahšušana to your representatives. Three textiles were spent for expenses. The textiles are affected by moth and in bad condition. We repeatedly offered them for sale, but there were no buyers. Did Pilah-Ištar not tell you there that moths have spoiled them and that one offers a bad price for them? Ten textiles have now been sold for 2.5 minas of silver. Your representatives sealed the silver and it is here. While you instructed me in hurama as follows: 'If your sister goes to the City, give the silver, the price the textiles yielded, to her and let her come here', since a severe cold reigns here it is not feasible for her to go and therefore I did not yield the silver to her. It is up to you there what to do. I sent you 2 minas 57 shekels of silver with Šu-Suen from hattum, thinking: 'He is my father, he will go and bring tin up for me from the City so that I obtain at least some silver and also can pay silver to my creditor and send (what I owe) on the basis of my tablet.' But you, you said: 'Your sister needed silver and I have given it to her on the basis of your tablet'. Later, when you were about to set out on a journey, you said: 'Give me every single shekel of silver you have then I will buy for you tin, 10 minas, so that you can obtain silver and gather courage'. But instead of encouraging me, (for) the 1 mina 14 shekels of silver - its excise added, its transport fee paid - and in addition 0.5 mina of silver, temple funds of Aššur - its excise added, its transport fee paid - that I gave you in the presence of Azutaya and Idi-bāni to make purchases with, until this very day you have not sent me the tin bought with my silver! They said: The slave Abu-šalim owes 16,040 minas of copper, the price of wool, to Ušinalam. As to the 30, 000 minas of copper from the others that they owe to the palace, he angered Ušinalam." They went on: "Abu-šalim must come. If Abu-šalim is absent, his master must travel. Here we fear for our lives and Abu-šalim's silver." When all of the envoys from the City and the Kanesh colony had heard their letters, they said: "You will have to satisfy Ušinalam." They handed me to Ilī-bāni, the scribe of the Burušhaddum colony and Ušinalam's servant together with my merchandise that had come up from the City, and they said: "Go! Satisfy Ušinalam!" After I had paid as the price of the wool 15, 000 minas of copper to Ušinalam and satisfied him, he came back and handed me over to the palace officials for 40 minas of silver to cover the debt of Abu-šalim. I said: "It is you I have satisfied, so take the -documents you gave to me and sell them where you wish." He answered: "I will not take the -documents, but you must pay (in accordance with) those other tablets." Before the envoys of the Kanesh colony and the plenary assembly of the colony at Burušhaddum I said this to Ušinalam, but he refused. If the colony has not given the tablets to Buziya, send me word, so that I can set out and come so my city and my lord may give me justice. They answered: "No tablet at all was certified. He sent us the silver and we paid the men." They continued: "It is true that Issu-arik discussed with him in our presence and said: 'Pay the debt of your brother, both here and abroad, and then go and take it again out of your brother's silver. If there is no silver belonging to your brother, then pay out of your joint-stock capital.'" For these words which Issu-arik discussed with you in their presence I shall lead them off, and I shall receive a tablet with their statement in the Gate of the God. As to the tablet concerning your share, we opened Bēlātum's house, and there is only a single tablet, and it concerned your funds and was sealed by Ukuwa and his partners. Also, 2 memoranda are present. As for Ennānum's son we searched for the tablet but it was not there. The City assembly has rendered a verdict in the sacred precinct concerning Ibaya's son, stating that whoever has hired an attorney and received a tablet concerning extradition - in the City as well as abroad - their tablets are invalid. The Kanesh colony will render a verdict concerning silver and gold. If a man makes a formal statement involving a deposition, he must reveal it to the colony, and if it concerns the three words he must go to the City; if it does not involve the three words he must not come to the City; he who comes anyway will not live. I seized Aššur-malik and Šalim-Aššur and said: "You have heard the missive of Šalim-Aššur concerning grain. Speak up and send word to the man about how much grain has been stored." They answered: "Now pressure us for the grain, but our own free loans, where are they?" He may come and someone will take away the grain. They continued: "The last five years we have been unwilling to follow his orders." I said: "Why are you angry?" They answered: "Apart from the free loans that we gave to him we have no other quarrel with him." My dear father, my dear lord - do not treat me harshly because word from me has not reached you until today! I said to myself: "Why should I send insulting words to him?" hurašānum offered me 10 shekels of silver to dispose of there, but I said: "I have received a similar amount from Šalim-Aššur." Yes, these were the words you swore to me before Aššur and our fathers' god. I released you from your bonds, but then it was me you made to suffer with 5 men or more, and now, my father's investors detain me! They have not granted me access to your house. While I gave you silver for your house and opened your eyes, you have done this to me! May the god know that I saved you from darkness and you repaid me thus! Moreover, my wife gave you 1 mina of silver as the price of Tiltitiš and her daughter, but you refused to let Tiltitiš be installed in my house and carry out the work load; instead, with an angry face you recount your calumnies. Also, I gave 5 shekels of silver and 2 sacks of wheat to your wife Mula, and your father's maid rages against me and you every day over the girl. You said: "Do not abuse me! I shall send her the shipments." I gave her 3 shekels of silver and a sack of wheat. Do not lick your fire! Send word so I can sell Tiltitiš or my slave and collect the silver. Do not become very angry with me again! Send word to your representatives, so they grant me access to your house."
